

Del Rio Resigns As Judge

DETROIT (AP) — A city criminal court judge suspended for misconduct has resigned from the bench so he will not lose his $9,500-a-year state pension.

The attorney for Recorder's Court Judge James Del Rio said Tuesday that even if his client were to be disbarred while still on the bench, he would face possible loss of the pension.

However, as a retired judge, the pension would be secure, said the attorney, Elbert Hatchett.

Hatchett said Del Rio will reach age 55 in two years and will then be eligible to collect his state pension.

Del Rio, who still faces possible disbarment by the State Bar Grievance Board, was suspended from all judicial activity for five years last month by the Michigan Supreme Court. Recorder's is the city's criminal court.

The high court said he showed "a gross lack of judicial temperament" and improperly used his office "to benefit friends." One accusation was that he improperly returned forfeited jail bonds to a Detroit bonding agency.

Del Rio, who is black, claimed he was the victim of a racist investigatory procedure.

He recently filed suit in U.S. District Court in Detroit naming the Michigan Supreme Court, the Judicial Tenure Commission, and the State Bar Grievance Board as defendants. Hatchett said Del Rio will file a request with the U.S. Supreme Court to hear an appeal of the suspension handed him last month.

At a hearing on that case Tuesday before Judge Charles Joiner, assistant state attorney general George Weller told the court: "What Del Rio really wants is for this court to act as the appellate court over the Supreme Court of Michigan."

In a letter announcing his departure from the bench, Del Rio told the state Supreme Court he had deliberately delayed the action to avoid any suggestion he was resigning under pressure.

Shooting Suspect Held In Berrien

Berrien sheriff's officers reported they were holding a Mathis, Texas, man who is wanted on two warrants in connection with a shooting incident in Rochelle, Ill., which left seven people wounded.

Deputy Jack Root reported he arrested Guadalupe Garcia Bonda, 37, after stopping a car Tuesday night on M-140 in Pipestone township. Root said two pistols were found and Bonda was booked on a concealed weapons charge.

A check with the Law Enforcement Information Network (LEIN) showed Bonda was being sought on a federal warrant charging unlawful flight to avoid prosecution and a Rochelle warrant charging involvement in the cafe shootings, Root said.

Berrien officers said Rochelle police reported three men entered a cafe July 17 and shot seven people. The victims suffered minor wounds. The FBI obtained a warrant after it was believed Bonda had left Illinois, Berrien officers said.

ICB Embezzlement Suspected

James F. Murphy, president of Inter-City bank, today confirmed reports that the FBI is investigating a suspected embezzlement at the bank's Baroda branch office. Murphy said FBI agent Richard Edwards was called in Friday after bank officials uncovered the suspected embezzlement. Murphy said no charges have been filed yet, but the investigation is continuing. He said the bank staff is now auditing the branch to determine how much money is missing. "It's going to take a long time to determine how much money is missing," Murphy said. Reports were circulating that as much as $60,000 may have been embezzled, but Murphy refused to comment on the amount. ICB is headquartered at 823 Riverview drive, Benton Harbor, and operates nine branch offices in Berrien county.

BLACK WOMAN JUDGE WINS: Judge Geraldine Ford, left, known as "mean Geraldine" for her law-and-order stand in Detroit Recorder's Court, meets with court officials this week after beating off attempt to relegate her to civil court cases. Superiors called her "too slow" in plea bargaining, which she opposes. Judge Ford was ordered transferred after refusing to comply with crash program to reduce Recorder's Court backlog. But groups as diverse as NAACP and

Police Officers Association of Michigan marched to her defense, and the transfer was dropped. She'll now handle trials specially assigned by Recorder's Court chief judge. New Buffalo In Line For Extra Police

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

State Rep. Harry Gast Jr. (R-St. Joseph) said he was told yesterday that while the former New Buffalo state police post may not be restored to full post status, state police protection in the New Buffalo area will be increased.

Gast said a decision on whether to restore the New Buffalo post won't be made by the Legislature until after it reconvenes on Monday, Sept. 19.

Meanwhile, it appears that the Department of State Police is considering the establishment of one central Berrien county state police post, with outlying areas in the county served on a team concept, Gast said.

The former New Buffalo post now operates as a substation with a team of troopers assigned from the Benton Harbor post. There also is a full service post at Niles.

Gast said this morning that he and State Sen. Charles Zollar received their information from a House-Senate conference committee and Col. Gerald Hough, director of the Department of State Police. Gast said the $400,000 appropriation to restore the New Buffalo post is still in the state police budget, not yet sent to the governor. The budget is in the conference committee for possible amendments and won't be decided finally until after the Legislature reconvenes, Gast said.

Gast said if the central post-team concept is started in Berrien county, "it would be some time in the future."

Gast said that until such a change were made, both he and Zollar agreed to stand firm "in our resolve to want full post status restored" at New Buffalo. The New Buffalo post was changed to a substation basis in June, 1976, as part of a state financial belt-tightening to balance the budget.

Gast said the assurances for

Busing Foe Seeks Backers Here

By LARRY MACINTYRE
Staff Writer

A resident of St. Clair Shores near Detroit was in Berrien county yesterday and Monday drumming up members for a national organization opposing court-ordered school busing to achieve integration.

David Gorski, state chairman of the National Association for Neighborhood Schools Inc. (NANS), said he spent a good portion of his two days in the Coloma area.

Gorski said he believes the ongoing Benton Harbor schools desegregation suit will eventually result in cross district busing involving Coloma and Eau Claire and he wants to find members in those areas now.

Gorski is employed by the Cadillac division of General Motors and has taken on the state chairmanship of NANS as an unpaid volunteer, he said.

He decided to come to Berrien county after reading of U.S. District Judge Noel Fox' ruling last week that the Benton Harbor school board has created and maintained a segregated school district.

The ruling opens the door to court-ordered remedies which could involve the Coloma and Eau Claire school districts as additional defendants in the suit. The role of additional defendants will be considered in court hearings later this year.

Gorski, father of a three-year-old boy, said NANS members are not racists, they are just people who want to send their children to their own neighborhood schools they support with property taxes.

He said the NAACP is now taking the Detroit desegregation suit back to court in an effort to reverse an earlier decision against cross district busing there. Cross district busing in Detroit was ruled out because the courts found that suburban school boards took no actions that would have contributed to segregated schools within the city.

A reversal of that ruling would pave the way for forced busing in both Detroit and Benton Harbor, he said.

The NAACP is seeking cross district busing because both Detroit and Benton Harbor are predominantly black and can only be integrated by mixing with neighboring school districts, Gorski said.

NANS' primary objective is to force a vote in the U.S. House of Representatives on a proposed constitutional amendment that would ban busing for integration. NANS members are urged to put pressure on their congressmen to act on the amendment, Gorski said. The amendment is bottled up in the House judiciary committee, he said. NANS members are pressuring their Congressmen to sign a petition that would force the amendment out of committee and onto the House floor for a vote. Gorski said 218 signatures are needed.

A spokesman for Congressman Dave Stockman (R-St. Joseph) said Stockman has already signed the petition.

David Gerson, Stockman's administrative assistant, said the congressman is also co-sponsoring a bill just introduced that would prevent federal courts from ordering busing unless a three-judge panel determines a discriminatory purpose in education is involved. Gorski said NANS was formed a year ago because its founders believe the only way to fight the federal courts was with a national organization. He said local anti-busing organizations have proved ineffective.

"You can't fight a national movement on a local level," Gorski said. "A local organization can't stop a federal program."

He said NANS has a national membership of 400,000. He said he did not know how many members are in Michigan, but he believes the Michigan chapter is the third largest in the nation.

An individual membership is $10 and will entitle a member to receive monthly bulletins and a "What you can do" letter. The NANS Michigan address is P.O. Box 212, Warren, Mich., 48090. The organization is nonprofit, Gorski added.

Teacher Charged With Sex Offense

South Berrien Bureau

NILES — A Niles junior high school teacher who faces a sex offense charge in Portage involving a 16-year-old girl has been suspended from his job here, according to school officials.

Dr. William Fairman, superintendent of Niles public schools, said the suspension of teacher David Fields, 30, of Niles, was indefinite, pending the outcome of court proceedings. For the time being, the suspension is with pay, Fairman added.

A spokesman in the Ninth District court office in Portage said today that a preliminary examination, demanded by Fields on a charge of attempting to procure an act of gross indecency, has been rescheduled for Sept. 28. The examination had originally been set for Sept. 7.

Court records indicate Fields has posted a $2,500 bond.

Portage police said a man identified as Fields was arrested Aug. 22 for allegedly soliciting a girl to perform a sex act.

Fields has been employed with the Niles school system for seven years, Dr. Fairman said. He taught at Ring Lardner junior high and was scheduled to teach at Ballard junior high this fall, according to Fairman.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Former Mayor Joseph Alioto, 61, has been granted a divorce from his wife of 36 years.

Superior Court Judge Jay Potenhauer approved the divorce on Tuesday but still has to decide on how Alioto will divide community property — reportedly worth $8 million — with his former wife, Angelina. She has been receiving $5,500 a month in support.

Questionable Waterfront Zoning

Though not every property owner in St. Joseph may agree, over the years the city's zoning has worked well to the community betterment.

Presently the city planning commission is engaging in an exercise reminiscent of the poem about shooting an arrow into the air. "It landed," as the bowman noted, "I know not where."

The proposal calls for defining the Lakefront area from the south pier to Lions Beach Park as a water recreational district. Its development would be limited to apartments and motels, commercial establishments of the boutique variety, and possibly a convention hall.

If adopted by the city commission, this would demolish the residential and commercial properties to non-conforming uses. This would mean the owners could replace a leaky roof but not add on to their buildings, and if a fire or other disaster demolishes a structure to half its original size, the damaged portion could not be replaced.

The plan evokes some wrathful comment from the residential and commercial owners.

They contend, rightfully so, that the zoning condemns their holdings without the financial compensation that is essential to the government body taking private property.

The idea has been bouncing around for over two decades. In 1956 the St. Joseph Improvement Association suggested the Silver Beach amusement park, then obviously heading on a downward grade, might be converted to a marina-convention site. Whirlpool's subsequent demolition of the old Cooper Wells buildings and the company's gift of the land to the city and the shutdown of the amusement park serve to bolster the concept.

The missing link between theory and practice is the absence of a developer, public or private, to come forward with the money to change the waterfront's face.

Six years ago city hall thought it had a deal to buy Silver Beach's 20 acres from its owner, Roberta Drake Terrill, for an estimated $350,000.

This fell through, if indeed it ever was close to being consummated.

Since then nothing more concrete than those nebulous discussions has appeared on the horizon.

The four business establishments, Horan Redi-Mix, Dixon Beverage, Crown Janitorial Service, and IPM Development Engineering (turntables), which the waterfront zoning would leave hanging in midair, in the same interim have expanded their operations, increased employment and boosted their local tax base for the benefit of the city's, county's and school district's coffers.

Similarly, the residential owners have put considerable time and effort into improving their homes.

If a developer were within gunshot, rezoning the beach area at least would sport the virtue of the new look being a greater economic asset than that which it would replace.

As it is, the proposal tracks the folly of losing the bird in hand for two in the bush.

Mrs. Terrill would be the principal beneficiary of the zoning change.

The old Silver Beach's location in an area restricted to semi-recreational purposes makes it the logical starting for whatever developer may appear in the future; and as any realtor can tell the reader, it's the prime site that commands the prime dollar.

Carter Words Increase Flood Of Illegal Aliens

If anyone in Washington is surprised to learn that the number of illegal aliens coming into the United States from Mexico has risen 51 per cent since the President announced his limited amnesty program for those already in the country illegally, it is because they don't appreciate the significance of the problem.

The amnesty program, which — if Congress approves — will provide eventual citizenship for illegal aliens in the U.S. since at least 1970, is an open invitation for all people of any nationality desperate for a better life to take their chances on coming in now.

Snowed Under By Paper Blizzard

America is being snowed under by a paper blizzard. That's the warning of a management consultant, who fears that if this redundant record-keeping doesn't soon stop, office workers will be compelled to move out to make room for new files.

The number of persons so engaged is higher than the army of farm workers. But instead of sowing a crop which will have subsequent value, they plow a field of extraneous forms and needless extra copies whose elimination would save billions of dollars annually. Government, long regarded as expert in creating mountains of superfluous papers, no longer has exclusive right to this claim.

The problem has two aspects — the compulsion to inform more and more associates of each transaction, and the reluctance to dispose of records when they have served their purpose. There is no satisfactory answer except constant review and revision of procedures. But if care is not taken this, too, often adds to the mountainous paper flow.

'PUBLIC ACCESS' FEE BLASTED
Editor,
In paying for today's society, increased taxes, taxes on taxes and the levying of taxes without legislative or voter representation have become intolerably common.
The latest of such taxes, the "public access permit," is completely improper, highly unjust, discriminatory and attacks the very freedom and free will of all Americans that is guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States of America.
The public access permit is a fee paid to the State of Michigan for an individual's right to hunt on his neighbor's property. In my opinion the Department of Natural Resources and the Michigan Legislature have overstepped their authority as governing bodies by denying the rights of landowners to allow for the public use of privately owned property at the landowners discretion and grabbing another dollar from the pockets of Michigan sportsmen.

PARK CYCLE BAN SPARKS PROTEST
Editor,
Sunday, Aug. 28, my wife and I attended a reunion of the Delta Psi Omega drama fraternity at Riverview park. We rode my motorcycle, which is a Honda 750cc motorcycle with touring accessories, to the reunion. We were not allowed to bring the bike inside the park. The attendant told us that motorcycles were prohibited there on weekends. We could (and did) park the bike on the grass next to the attendant's booth. There were three other motorcycles parked there. All were large displacement mud machines.
The reason the motorcycles were banned, I suppose, is that some kids on dirt bikes have been roaring around in there. That is no reason to ban the large (they weigh in excess of 400 pounds) bikes. A motorcyclist who owned one of these expensive machines is not going to take it for a spin through the woods, risking punctured engine cases and bent suspension components. I think that the park managers who set the no-motorcycle policy should, since they will let you in but not the bike, either build a parking lot just inside the drive past the attendant's booth so motorcyclists won't have to jump the curb to park on the grass (the Honda GL1000, for example, has only five inches of ground clearance) or allow street motorcycles of 500cc displacement on up to use the park.
In answer to the thought that the motorcyclist will tear up the woods anyway, I know of two people who have clipped trees with their VWs or dune buggies and not bothered to tell anyone about it. And dune buggies haven't been banned there. Only motorcycles and minibikes. So let's have a little fair play. Bikers have to pay to use Riverview; why not let us use the parking lots like the others who use the park on weekends.

Poor Children Still Suffering

WASHINGTON — Two-thirds of the children of the nation's poorest parents have never seen a dentist, and about 60 per cent of those youngsters have chronic medical conditions which aren't being treated.

Compared with the children of more affluent families, the prevalence of heart disease among the poor is three times as great. Six times as many low-income youngsters have hearing impairments and five times as many have mental illness.

In theory, there is no more meritorious mission for this country's federal, state and local government health agencies than to identify the debilitating medical problems of impoverished youngsters and provide treatment at a cost their families can afford.

In practice, a federal law passed almost a decade ago mandated the operation of just such a program, known as Early and Periodic Screening, Diagnosis and Treatment or EPSDT.

But little has been done to improve the lot of millions of sick and needy children because of a disgraceful record in insensitivity, incompetence and even hostility on the part of those who were supposed to administer EPSDT.

Although the law requiring the joint federal-state program became effective in January, 1968, it gave the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) 18 months to draft regulations and explain to the states the addition of EPSDT to the Medicaid program.

When the target date of July 1, 1969 arrived, however, virtually nothing had been done. In fact, it wasn't until early 1972 — more than four years after the law was passed and two and one-half years after the program was supposed to be operating — that HEW's regulations finally took effect.

Then-HEW Secretary Caspar Weinberger cited EPSDT's few successes in 1974:

"We found children whose rotting teeth had abscessed gums and were pouring poisons into their systems. Dentists treated them ... We found children who saw the writing on the blackboard as a blur. They were fitted with glasses."

But the Children's Defense Fund, a nonprofit Washington organization, has just completed a comprehensive study which concludes that only a quarter of the needed health screenings are being conducted on the approximately 13 million children eligible for assistance.

Among those who are screened, inadequate follow-up results in treatment for only slightly more than half of the cases of anemia, lead poisoning, parasite infections, respiratory ailments and host of other major medical problems.

The study identifies numerous other EPSDT failures.

Criticized in the report are not only the foot-dragging federal bureaucrats but also the state health administrators who have never been enthusiastic about the program as well as city and county health officials.

Several months ago, President Carter unveiled a package of reforms designed to improve the entire undertaking and rename it the Child Health Assessment Program or CHAP. Congress will begin considering that package next month.

But Wendy Lazarus, director of the Children's Defense Fund study, believes that Carter's proposal "only goes 60 per cent of the way toward what's needed."

The time has come to abandon such half-measures and give the children of the poor the chance to compete — without the handicap of an unnecessary medical disability — for the best our society can offer in education, employment and self-advancement.

WASHINGTON — The definitive sources of the Carter Administration, says, are the Federal Register, the Bible, and Playboy.

By contrast, the definitive sources of the Ford Administration were Golf Illustrated, Business Weekly, and the speeches of Earl Butz.

As you may have noticed, there are no definitive sources for this column.

As the House and Senate conferences were about to meet to settle the question of federal subsidies for Hawaiian-grown sugar, Hawaii's Senator Sparky Matsunaga quietly laid a white envelope at each member's place. Inside each was a personal plea asking the congressmen to be generous with Hawaiian sugar-growers. But it prompted visions of other white envelopes carrying cash to congressmen, a subject about which most members are highly sensitive these days.

After Matsunaga left, a loud voice asked wryly: "Who was that Korean delivering envelopes?"

Parent Company Of Ollie's, Inc. Eyes More Growth

By JERRY KRIEGER
Farm & Features Editor

LANSING — Maxco, Inc., a mini-conglomerate of 11 Michigan businesses brought together under the leadership of a one-time St. Joseph businessman, is ready to take in additional firms.

President Max A. Coon, partner in a public accounting firm in St. Joseph in 1963-64, told stockholders of the ambitious young holding firm here Tuesday of considerable financial progress. He also reported successful completion of a merger that could double sales this year.

Maxco, founded in Lansing in July 1, 1968, is the parent firm for Ollie's, Inc., of St. Joseph, operator of four retail clothing stores in St. Joseph. Ollie's joined the new conglomerate at the end of its first month of being, July 31, 1968.

President Coon told the annual stockholders meeting that sales of nine of the corporation's subsidiaries amounted to $14,306,235 for the nine-month period ending last March 31. The nine-month figure was used because the acquisition of its 10th subsidiary as of March 31 led to starting a new fiscal year at that time, Coon explained.

That merger brought Planet Corp., by far the biggest of Maxco's units, into the organization. Coon suggested that with Planet in the fold, Maxco could do $30,000,000 worth of business in the current year. Sales in the first quarter of the new fiscal year were $8,900,000 for all units.

Coon also said a strain of absorbing the big but financially-distressed Planet Corp. has been eased by now and that Maxco has since taken in another subsidiary, Akemi Plastics of Eaton Rapids, and is possibly interested in taking in more firms. Any more acquisitions, however, will be more selective, said Coon. He called the pulling of 10 firms into the conglomerate in its first nine years a "base-building operation."

Its subsidiaries operate widely varied businesses, from four retail clothing stores run by Ollie's, to the production of automated materials handling equipment for heavy industries.

With the acquisition of Planet Corp., Maxco's stock became publicly traded, on an over-the-counter basis. The latest stock sale was reported at $1.80 per share. Coon said there are some 1,100 stockholders now, with 2,400,476 shares issued, at a par of $1.

The nine-month earnings for Maxco was $164,175 or 7 cents a share, up from $77,924, or 3 cents per share, profit in the previous full 12-month fiscal year.

Ray A. Carlson Jr., president of Ollie's, Inc., and a director of Maxco, said sales of Ollie's, Inc., were over $1.5 million in the last fiscal year. It operates Ollie's, Ollie's Annex, Heritage Shop and Something Else, all in St. Joseph.

Ollie's was founded nearly 40 years ago by Olive Schreiner. She is still semi-active in the business and a stockholder. Carlson joined the store some 21 years ago.

Carlson said Coon served as accountant for Ollie's when he was in St. Joseph in a CPA partnership with Floyd Costerlan. This acquaintanceship led to Maxco's acquisition of Ollie's shortly after Coon formed the holding company in Lansing in 1968.

Subsidiaries of Maxco, in addition to Ollie's, Planet Corp. and Akemi Plastics, are: Auto Body Supply Co., Grand Rapids; Erco Corp., Williamston; Resource Control, Inc., Lansing; Image Arts, Lansing; Painters Supplies, Inc., Lansing; Triquet Paper Co., Lansing; Pak-Sak Industries, Inc., Grand Rapids, and Universal Ceiling and Partition Co., Lansing.

Richard Eastman, school board member who headed the board's negotiating team, said any three items in the new contract, in addition to salary and the school calendar, are open for discussion prior to the second year of the pact.

Following last night's meeting, Clark reported repair work to the fire damaged wing of the junior high school is expected to be completed by the start of the school year, Tuesday, Sept. 6. Fire July 31 caused an estimated damage in excess of $50,000.

The step hikes, or annual increments, in the new contract amount to an average of $486 for each additional year of experience for teachers with a bachelor's degree. The automatic boost averages around $512 for teachers with a master's degree.

Under the new contract, salaries for teachers with a bachelor's degree will range from $9,187 for a beginning teacher to $16,067 for a teacher with 14 years experience. The range under the old contract was $9,187 to $15,618.

Teachers with a master's degree will start at $9,660 to a maximum of $16,895 after 14 years experience. The old range was $9,660 to $16,422. Starting wages for first-year teachers remain unchanged from last year.

Coloma Board Approves Two-Year Teacher Pact

COLOMA — The Coloma school board in special session last night approved a new two-year master teaching contract with the Coloma Education association.

Under terms of the contract, made retroactive to July 1, teachers will receive an average pay hike of from 4 to 5 per cent this school year when yearly step hikes are included.

"Some will receive a little less, some a little more depending on their experience," Ronald Clark, assistant superintendent said. "But, generally speaking 4 to 5 per cent pay increase will be received by the majority of teachers."

Also included in the contract is school board payment into the teacher's retirement fund amounting to five per cent of a teacher's base salary.

Under the new contract, salaries for teachers with a bachelor's degree will range from $9,187 for a beginning teacher to $16,067 for a teacher with 14 years experience. The range under the old contract was $9,187 to $15,618.

Teachers with a master's degree will start at $9,660 to a maximum of $16,895 after 14 years experience. The old range was $9,660 to $16,422. Starting wages for first-year teachers remain unchanged from last year.

The step hikes, or annual increments, in the new contract amount to an average of $486 for each additional year of experience for teachers with a bachelor's degree. The automatic boost averages around $512 for teachers with a master's degree.

Paying Off Support Will Take 40 Years

BY SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

It will take a Benton township man nearly 40 years to pay off a support arrearage for six ADC children at the rate ordered in Berrien Circuit court.

Calvin Williams, of 639 Blaine avenue, appeared in court for arrears totaling $8,076. He paid $150 on the arrearage and was ordered to pay $4 a week toward paying it off.

Judge William S. White also ordered Williams to sign a wage assignment of $36 weekly support and sentenced him to 10 weekends in jail.

Williams was one of nine fathers held in contempt of court this week for non-support of children, according to Edward Pastrick, chief investigator for the friend of the court's office. All of the fathers were placed on two years probation.

In other sentences by White: Ronald Shank, of the Benton hotel, Benton Harbor, received a two-weekend jail term after paying $100 towards an arrearage of $1,956 for five children not on ADC. Shank was told to sign a wage assignment of $28 weekly support and $12 weekly on the arrearage.

James Hill, of 180 Territorial road, Benton Harbor, was sentenced to two weekends in jail for $1,782 arrears for one child on ADC, and was told to sign a wage assignment of $13 weekly support plus $7 per week on the arrears.

Blanton Bolen, of Kennville, Ind., was told to pay $15 weekly support and $10 a week on an arrearage of $2,429 for three ADC children, and was warned that if three payments are missed a 90-day jail term will be imposed.

Calvin Bradley, of 433 Foster avenue, Benton Harbor, was ordered to sign a wage assignment of $12 weekly support and $3 weekly towards an arrearage of $1,580 for one ADC child. Pastrick said Bradley has not made a support payment since the order started in March, 1976.

Bobbie Long, of Three Oaks, paid $150 towards an arrearage of $583 for two children not on ADC, and was told to sign a wage assignment of $15 weekly support plus $5 per week on the arrearage.

Leon Horton, of Elkhart, was told to pay $33 weekly support and $5 per week on an arrearage

Woman Reports Rape; Man Held

A 23-year-old St. Joseph woman reported she was raped early today by a man who offered her a ride after her car broke down on Napier avenue in Fairplain, according to Berrien sheriff's officers.

Lt. Douglas Tiefenbach and Deputy Tom Page gave this account:

A woman came to the sheriff's department at 2 a.m., saying she had been raped by a motorist who offered her a ride. The man drove her into the country, raped her, then drove her to her home in St. Joseph where she was raped a second time before being released.

Tiefenbach said Bruce McNamy, 29, 3001 Lake Shore drive, St. Joseph, was taken into custody at 4:30 a.m. and booked for investigation of a charge of rape.

The arrest was made after investigation of information provided by the woman. Tiefenbach reported she said she did not know the man before the alleged rape.

Page said the woman apparently walked from her home to the sheriff's department on Port street, St. Joseph, to report the incident. She was taken to Memorial hospital where she was treated and released.

The Picture Page has proven so popular with both readers and advertisers, according to advertising manager Jim Case, that it was decided to let Pereira go all out with an entire picture section.

Since it started in 1975, the Picture Page has been published as often as four times a month, and there has frequently been a waiting list for advertisers who want to appear in it. Each page has room for nine pictures.

By expanding the section to eight pages, Pereira has made room for 72 advertisers in the popular section.

But it wasn't easy work. Pereira sold all the ads, took all the pictures, wrote the captions, and laid out the pages.

"It's been quite a hectic schedule for Buzz since each advertiser had to be scheduled for a picture appointment," Case said.

"We hope our readers enjoy it," he added.

Canteen Executive Buying BH Firm

By RALPH LUTZ

Norbert Kent has resigned as general manager and board president of Canteen Co. of Southwestern Michigan, Inc., to purchase the Boynton Vending and Amusement Co., Benton Harbor.

John Robison of Toledo, Ohio, most recently affiliated with renaming it Kent Vending and Amusements, Inc.

Kent is buying Boynton Vending from Marshall Boynton. Boynton said the sale is scheduled to become final tomorrow.

Details of the sale were not disclosed, but Kent said his new business and Canteen are not competitive. Kent said his firm will serve the recreation market, such as restaurants and bars with cigarettes, candy, music and coin-operated games. Canteen serves institutional and industrial firms with food and beverages and does catering.

Kent said his business will be a family affair, including his wife Dorothy and sons Randall, 22, and Gregory, 24.

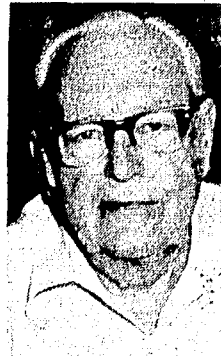

Kent joined Canteen in 1960 as sales representative for the franchise area of Berrien, Cass, Van Buren and St. Joseph counties. He was named general manager in 1963 and board president in 1967.

Robison, 46, said he has been in the vending business for 25 years. He most recently has been district manager for southeastern Michigan, headquartered in Detroit, and before that worked as manager of Ogden Food Service, Toledo.

Robison said he is planning to move to the Twin Cities. Robison and his wife, Lorraine, have a son and two daughters. Boynton, 72, said he doesn't plan to do anything for the time being, adding that he has been in the vending business for 44 years.

Boynton said he was a partner in Barentsen Candy Co. and ran its vending division from 1930 to 1974. Boynton said he separated from Barentsen and acquired the vending part of the business in 1974. Boynton said the sale of his current business is in the hands of lawyers and won't become final until Thursday.

Canteen Co. of Southwestern Michigan was started in 1930, Kent said.

DOWAGIAC — Henry Graper Jr., city manager here, said the review process has begun for 30 applications received for the position of police chief of this city.

Graper said a new chief would probably be selected by about the first of November. Following a review by the mayor, council, city attorney and personnel board the list of applicants will be narrowed to 10, from which three to five will get personal interviews. Graper said there was one application from within the Dowagiac department.

The action was necessitated by the resignation of Michael D. Schott, chief for the past three years. He left Aug. 15, to return to school in Tampa, Fla., where he intends to work for his master's degree in criminology.

He'll Run New 'Kent Vending'

Canteen Co., Detroit, has been named general manager of the local Canteen franchise at 3415 Leroy avenue, St. Joseph. The board post is not being filled now, Kent said, adding that the changes are effective Thursday.

Diamond Engagement Ring Tradition Originated In 1477 By Austrian Duke

NEW YORK (AP) — This year marks the 500th anniversary of the diamond engagement ring.

It all started in 1477, the Jewelry Industry Council says, when the dashing young Archduke Maximilian of Austria wooed and won comely Mary of Burgundy and sealed the pact with a handsome diamond ring.

Heeding his advisor who wrote, "At the betrothal your Grace must have a ring set with a diamond and also a gold ring," Maximilian had an imposing-looking gold one fashioned and wed his beloved Mary within 24 hours of the betrothal ceremony.

The actual ring, with a large cutout "M" for Maximilian, highlighted with diamonds and a smaller styled "M," for Mary, done in smaller diamonds, is still in existence. The ring is now in the Museum of Fine Arts in Vienna, the Jewelry Industry Council learned during research in connection with the anniversary celebration.

Although the tradition of the diamond as the betrothal stone began 500 years ago, evidence of the engagement tradition dates back as far as the covenant.

The pharaohs of Egypt are believed to have originated the ring, or circle, as a symbol of eternity. Their sketches indicate the circle as a heavenly sign that life, happiness and love have no beginning and no end.

Until the 18th century, the diamond engagement ring was a luxury only royalty and the very wealthy could afford, says the Diamond Information Center.

But today in the United States, it reports, 78 per cent of all first-time brides and nearly 50 per cent of all repeat brides receive a diamond engagement ring, and nearly half of all brides choose matched sets of engagement and wedding rings.

Since their discovery some 2,000 years ago diamonds have been a constant source of fascination, the information center researchers say. Named after the greek word "adamas," meaning unconquerable, diamonds are the hardest and most durable of all natural substances. By their very nature, they came to symbolize courage and invincibility. Some ancients believed that those who gazed into a diamond would gain inner strength. Others saw the diamond as a talisman toward off evil.

While the oval and marquise shapes are gaining in popularity, the solitaire in the brilliant or round cut remains the most popular choice today.

However, this has not always been so. The engagement ring, like women's fashions, has followed various trends. In colonial days the preferred setting was a hoop with diamonds circling half way or all the way around the finger. This style was referred to as the keeper ring, as it was placed above the wedding band for safekeeping.

In Martha Washington's day, clusters of diamonds were fashioned into floral bouquets. Many of these bouquet rings had scalloped borders and were referred to as cookie rings.

During the Victorian period diamond engagement rings, like the architecture, were quite large and ornate. Bands of yellow gold were embellished with details of black enamel.

At the close of the 18th century, jewelry designs underwent extensive changes when platinum began to be used for setting gems. Because platinum is stronger than gold or silver it allows the diamonds to be set in claws raising the stones from the ring — enabling the stone to catch and reflect even more light rays.

The brilliant-cut solitaire began to gain popularity and became a classic ring in the 1880s. In the 1920s, however, the emerald-cut diamond in ornate mountings came into vogue.

In the 1930s a variety of settings developed, which were referred to as illusion rings. Small stones and engravings surrounded a large stone, which was set onto a metal plate having a diameter slightly larger than its stone, thus creating the illusion that the center stone was larger.

While Maximilian's ring was quite a knockout in its day, jewelry experts point out that the multicarated treasure can't hold a candle for brilliance to even the most modest of today's half to one-carat diamond rings, the most popular sold.

Now, more scientific methods of cutting the diamond and carving the facets enable gemologists to bring out the fiery brilliance of the stone much more than the diamond cutters of the past ever dreamed could be done.

Cosmetics Can Breed Germs

EAST LANSING — Ever use a friend's lipstick or wet your eyebrow pencil with your tongue before outlining your brows? If so, you may have gotten a good dose of potentially harmful germs.

"Our skin is a garbage heap of bacteria," said Dr. Leo F. Judge, a microbiologist with a leading soap manufacturer, who spoke at the meetings of the American Institute of Biological Sciences, underway at Michigan State university.

Cosmetics, he added, form a convenient medium for breeding and transmitting a variety of germs and there are numerous ways for microbial contamination of cosmetics to occur in both manufacture and use.

A hand put into a jar of cold cream can introduce dangerous microorganisms, Judge said, and women sharing their lipstick with a friend may be getting more than they bargained for. Judge also said that some organisms are in the cosmetics before you buy them.

"To handle this problem of contamination at the factory, a panel of 40 scientists was formed by the cosmetics manufacturers to set up guidelines that are now in use.

The products undergo vigorous testing, but it is still virtually impossible to eliminate all organisms, he said.

Judge said that since harmful organisms form only a fraction of the total number of microorganisms present, our goal is to reduce levels of all organisms so that the dangerous ones are very rare.

The cosmetic industry is also regulated by the federal Food, Drug and Cosmetics Act which states that no harmful substance can be contained in a product.

But pathogens form a unique problem because it is difficult to decide exactly what constitutes a harmful microorganism.

Someone will undergo a bad reaction to almost any microbe while other people may not be affected, he said.

Judge also said that it is difficult to decide how many organisms to allow in a product. "We can't put a number on pathogens," he said, "because we don't know how many it takes to produce a disease."

Have Heroes Disappeared?

NEW YORK — "In every positive sense of the word, Eleanor Roosevelt was a hero to me," admits Shirley Temple Black, the one-time child cinema star and former political figure, in the September issue of "Seventeen" magazine. "I admired her enormously for two things in particular: her capacity for hard work and her overwhelming interest in the field of human rights."

Charles Lindbergh, Albert Einstein, J. Edgar Hoover and FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover were among Mrs. Black's other childhood heroes. "It's important to understand that I adopted bits and pieces from these people," she says.

But heroes seem to have disappeared from the scene in recent years. "You can't force-feed heroes and heroines to today's young people," Mrs. Black notes. "Yet I can't help feeling sorry that there aren't more heroes for our young people to admire, to take a piece of for their own future."

"It was easier to respect heroes when I was young, because public people weren't put under the kind of magnifying glass in those days that they are today. Very few people can stand the scrutiny of their personal lives that goes on with all the current investigative reporting," she observes.

"This constant barrage of news and opinion not only makes it tough on incipient heroes, but seems to be forcing a lot of young people into meditation and other introspective activities," Mrs. Black says.

"This is good to a certain extent. But perhaps it's time to cut down on the introspection and begin to look outward a little more. With an outward commitment and a healthy involvement, there is more of a chance to find other human beings to respect and emulate. Only in that way can heroes ever again come into focus."

Create Casual Atmosphere At Labor Day Cookout

Barbecuing Is Happy Tradition In America

Before we begin raking leaves, planning tailgate picnics before football games and bracing ourselves for the onset of winter, there is time for at least one more outdoor barbecue. And what better day to plan this outdoor feast than Labor Day.

The American barbecue actually began in the 19th century as a political event. Speeches and lively music filled the air as roasted meat, homemade bread and beer were distributed among the crowd.

Although some barbecues still involve large gatherings, most consist of family members and friends grilling hamburgers or steaks in the backyard. The casual, impromptu atmosphere of a barbecue makes it one of America's best forms of entertaining.

The next time you grill hamburgers or frankfurters, make a batch of Barbecued Beans to serve with them. This recipe has the added flavor and texture of chopped cocktail peanuts.

a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) for 25 to 30 minutes or until firm to the touch. Cool in pan set on wire rack. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar, if desired. Cut into three by one-inch bars. Makes 36 bars.

FOILED CHUCK ROAST
Three and one-half to four-pound chuck roast
Unseasoned meat tenderizer
One envelope (one and one-half ounce) sloppy Joe seasoning mix

One medium-sized onion, cut in thick slices
One-half cup water
Juice of one lemon
Tenderize chuck roast according to instructions on tenderizer bottle using one-half teaspoon tenderizer per pound of meat. Place roast on double thickness of two large sheets of heavy-duty aluminum foil. Sprinkle with contents of seasoning mix envelope and top with onion slices. Combine water and lemon juice; pour over meat.
Wrap roast securely in foil so that juices will not escape during cooking. Place directly on ample bed of hot coals, building coals up around sides of package, and cook without turning one to one and one-half hours depending on heat of fire.

The roast may also be cooked in a 425 degree oven about two hours or until tender. Makes six to seven servings.

HUSK ROASTED CORN
Eight ears corn on the cob (do not remove husks)
Cold water
Carefully lay back husks and remove corn silk. Smooth husks back into place and tie at tips. Soak ears one or more hours in cold water. Place corn directly on bed of hot coals and roast about 15 minutes turning frequently to cook all sides. Strip off husks and serve with Home Style Butter Spread.

HOME STYLE BUTTER SPREAD
One-fourth pound (one stick) butter or margarine, softened

Two tablespoons prepared yellow mustard
One teaspoon light brown sugar
One teaspoon seasoning salt
Combine ingredients using electric mixer or fork. Spread on hot cooked ears of corn. Makes about one-half cup.

If you are looking for a different punch bowl for your Labor Day celebration, try a watermelon. It makes an attractive centerpiece for a party table and adds its own flavoring to the punch it holds.

A watermelon boat punch is a mingle of citrus juices and for those who want, you may spike the punch with rum-sprinkled watermelon cubes. Another use of a watermelon boat is to hold a fruit frost of orange sherbet, for example.

WATERMELON BOAT PUNCH
Watermelon boat (about 16-pound melon)
One bottle (64-ounce) red fruit punch, chilled
One can (six-ounce) frozen tangerine juice concentrate, partially thawed
One can (six-ounce) frozen lime and lemonade concentrate, partially thawed
One-half cup watermelon juice

Three cups ginger ale
Ice cubes
Citrus slices for garnish
Rum Melon Cubes (optional)
To make the boat, you will need a large watermelon. If it does not rest evenly, cut a thin slice from the bottom. Then cut off a two-inch-thick horizontal slice from the top. Cut and scoop out fruit leaving a clean shell and juice. Scallop edge of melon to make an attractive boat. (Use toothpicks to mark off points.) Chill in refrigerator until serving time.

Combine punch, tangerine juice and lime and lemonade concentrates, and watermelon juice in boat. Gradually stir in gingerale. Add ice and citrus slices. Ladle into punch cups. Makes 26 four-ounce servings.

Rum Melon Cubes: When you scoop out Watermelon Boat, reserve about two dozen cubes of watermelon. Sprinkle these lightly with rum and refrigerate. At serving time, place one in each punch cup.

GERMAN HOT DOGS
One (one-pound) package hot dogs (10 average hot dogs)
One small onion, thinly sliced
One bay leaf
One (twelve-ounce) can beer
One tablespoon sugar
One (one-pound) can sauerkraut, drained
Hot German mustard
Twenty slices German bread (assorted ryes, pumpernickel, hard rolls)
Sweet pickle chips
Score hot dogs and place in plastic container which may be sealed. Top with onion slices and bay leaf. Combine beer and sugar. Pour over hot dogs. Seal container and store in refrigerator at least one hour or overnight to blend flavors.

Cook hot dogs over charcoal until nicely browned. Meanwhile, combine marinade with sauerkraut in medium saucepan. Simmer uncovered 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove bay leaf.

To serve, spread mustard over one slice of bread. Cut cooked hot dog in half lengthwise and place over mustard. Top with drained hot kraut mixture, pickle chips and second slice of bread. Serve warm. Makes ten sandwiches.

SPICY CRANBERRY GLAZED HAM PATTIES
Three cans (eight patties per can) ham patties
One can (eight-ounce) whole berry cranberry sauce
One-half cup orange marmalade
One cup bottled barbecue sauce

Sixteen slices (about one pound) American cheese slices Place ham patties on a grill rack about eight inches above gray coals and grill for five to six minutes on each side.

In a saucepan, mix cranberry sauce, orange marmalade and barbecue sauce. Brush patties with some sauce and turn patties. Grill for one to two minutes and brush other side. Turn and grill for one to two minutes.

Stack three patties with a slice of cheese between each patty and leave on grill until cheese melts. Heat remaining sauce. Place ham stacks on heated serving platter and spoon remaining ham sauce over stacks.

Can also be prepared as above in a broiler.

SALAD BUFFET WITH CREAMY CRANBERRY DRESSING

Salad:
Twelve cups bite-size assorted salad greens
One cucumber, thinly sliced
One red onion, thinly sliced and separated into rings
One-half cup crumbled crisp bacon

One can (twelve-ounce) kernel corn, drained

One cup thin celery slices
One cup thin carrot slices
Creamy Cranberry Dressing:
One cup cranberry juice cocktail

One cup mayonnaise
One package (three-ounce) blue cheese, crumbled
One-half teaspoon fine herbs
Mix greens, cucumber and red onion in a large salad bowl.

Place bacon, corn, celery and carrot slices into small individual bowls. Place around large salad bowl. Stack individual salad plates nearby. Combine all dressing ingredients and beat until well blended and place in serving

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Bathtub's No Substitute

Dear Ann Landers: About that chap who used a computer to figure out how much loving he was getting from his wife and it turned out to be not very much: you suggested "something different" might help pump a little excitement into their sex life — like maybe a bubble bath. Here's my reply — to both of you:

Re: "Whiz with math" And bubble bath; Took your advice. Bubbles were nice. Started foolin' around. Nearly drowned. I'll make love in bed. — Rig Daddy From Alabama Dear Daddy: O.K. You win.

Keep your powder dry.

Lazybones

Dear Ann Landers: This is the story of boy, snow, and grass. The boy is 18, athletic, a high school honor student. Father works 10 hours a day and some weekends. Mother also works.

I was relieved when the snowy winter ended and I no longer had to watch Father do all the shoveling. Now evidently Father is going to do all the grass-mowing. Why? Because he thinks Son should see the need and do it without being asked. Mother believes Father should assign the task to Son, as she does out duties to daughters. Son sees no connection between having a car to drive, free gas, allowance, room, board, clothing and love — and doing the lawn-mowing and snow-shoveling for his on-the-feet-all-day father. Son's total contribution is occasional trash burning.

Please, Ann, speak to this young man and say what his parents are not able to. He will understand if you tell him, and he will respect himself more in 10 years. He does not mean to be thoughtless or selfish, and he will soon expect some help with college expenses from the very parents he does not give help to now.

Is 18 too young to expect a person to beat his dad to the lawnmower if he is not asked? Maybe your words to the parents might help, too. I have a feeling this boy's name might be legion in today's United States. Just sign me — Because

Opening lead — ♠ 4

By Oswald & James Jacoby
The ordinary bridge player would have no trouble making seven spades. Only an expert could go wrong and it required a master stroke of misdirection by another expert to beat him.

East was Andy Gabriovich of Connecticut. His retirement from serious bridge due to press of work has deprived bridge of one of its most delightful exponents. South won the diamond lead in dummy, drew two rounds of trumps, paused briefly when West showed out. led a diamond to his king, ruffed his last diamond in dummy and came to a real halt when Andy undertruffed.

Our real life unlucky expert worried about just why Andy had undertruffed. He tried to visualize Andy's hand and decided that he was holding three hearts to the queen and four clubs to the Jack.

He thought some more, confirmed his diagnosis, cashed dummy's last trump, led the three of clubs, thought some more, played his nine of clubs and let West score the setting trick with his unprotected Jack.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have migraines and back pains plus osteoarthritis. The usual advice of my doctor is to take aspirin, every four hours, and this has worked well.

But last May I went to a well known clinic for a checkup for a problem I had and they found I had gallstones and removed the gall bladder.

With all the tests that I went through, no one thought of making a coagulation test. Result, during surgery I bled profusely and the surgeon had quite a problem stopping the bleeding. Later I was black and blue from the navel down to the buttocks. The aspirin products had thinned the blood to an extreme point. The surgeon told my wife that if I had had the operation for a stomach ulcer he could not have stopped the bleeding and I would have passed on.

It seems strange that some doctors will prescribe aspirin in large amounts for arthritis when the results can be fatal or cause severe bleeding as it did in my case.

I have followed your column for years but cannot recollect any mention of this possible effect of the use of aspirin which is so readily available and can be misused.

DEAR READER — I have mentioned this not once but several times. Your paper may not have carried that particular column or you may have missed it.

In any case, aspirin does affect blood clotting mechanisms. That is the logic for the study of the possible use of aspirin in preventing heart attacks and strokes — which is still experimental.

When taken properly, in moderate amounts with food, or at least a cup of milk, there is little danger that aspirin will cause bleeding in normal people. If you had an ulcer that was ready to bleed it might cause sudden bleeding.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 8-8, Aspirin and Related Medicines. It will give you more information on aspirin and bleeding as well as other information on aspirin. You will be particularly interested in seeing the long list of other medicines by other names that you can buy without a prescription that also contain aspirin.

All of these medicines will also affect the blood clotting mechanism. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10018.

When you think about it you would not have had a problem if you had not had to have surgery. Most hospitals or surgical services require testing the blood for bleeding tendencies before surgery. Despite all our sophisticated tests there are some people who have an unrecognized bleeding tendency and they develop trouble during surgery or afterward.

It is generally recommended that NO ONE should take aspirin — not even two small tablets — for at least a week before surgery and I think that should be at least two weeks. The same should apply to any of the salicylates or medicines containing aspirin. A woman should not take any aspirin for at least a week before childbirth and probably would be wise to wait these medicines throughout pregnancy.

(Because of the volume of mail Dr. Lamb cannot answer your letters personally but he will answer representative letters of general interest in his column.)

Fruit Salad Cones

Here's a fruit salad idea for tempting the snacking set around your house. Combine shredded carrots, slice bananas, mandarin oranges, sliced sun-dried tomatoes, chopped toasted walnuts, miniature marshmallows, minced candied ginger and diced fresh or canned pineapple.

Fold mixture gently into lemon yogurt and chill. Spoon into sugar cones. Serve with a scattering of chopped walnuts over the top.

These cones also make delicious desserts or a satisfying energy booster during the day.

I Care in Kalamazoo

Dear Zoo: There is nothing I can say to an 18-year-old boy, or his parents, that will transform him from a parasitical, free-loading hulk to a considerate self-starter. Too bad you didn't write 18 years ago.

I'm printing your letter, not for them, but for others for whom it is not too late.

CONFIDENTIAL To Settle This Argument So We Can Decide How To Go: Go any way you want to but here are the facts: Statistically speaking, you are much safer in the air than on the highway. In 1976 the U.S. commercial airlines flew a record 2.5 billion miles and carried over 220 million passengers. It was the safest year in history with the fewest accidents and least number of fatalities.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Soft Touch

NEW YORK — Ruffles and lace with sportswear? You bet! It is a fabulous fashion look and one you will be seeing a lot of this fall, predicts the September issue of "Seventeen" magazine.

Just take some classic pieces of corduroy or tweed or plaid wool, then add a touch of something soft.

The "something soft" can be flowered. Or ruffled. Or lace. For example, a frill-necked cotton blouse romantically softens a knife-pleated jumper in a classic tartan plaid. And charming flowers are not limited to special-dress occasions anymore — nowadays, they are mixing in with the sports.

A posie-patterned, three-tiered skirt can be topped nicely with a classic turtleneck sweater, a dark plaid wool scarf and a jaunty beret for a soft-sporty look.

Contrast a delicate peek of white eyelet undershirt blouse with three sturdy pieces — an oversized heavy-knit turtleneck, a dark, waist-gathered corduroy skirt and a tweed, slitch-brimmed cloche.

Or, mix one of this season's lacy blouses with some of the sportswear classics you already own. Thick blouse-legged khaki pants into high boots and wear them with a soft, white blouse with a big, round lace-trimmed collar and cuffs. Completing the 18th century feeling is a dark, classic velvet vest.

And, this year, the extra pieces to add are delicate, romantic in feeling and even antique-looking. Try a lacy, filmy-knit scarf, patent leather pumps adorned with big bows, or flowers — in your hair or anywhere.

Cameos, mounted on a pin, a choker or a velvet bracelet-band, and pretty, old-fashioned combs are nostalgically romantic. They are all in keeping with the new, more feminine direction fashion is taking now.

Gift-Shop Stop

Years ago, I swore off going to Mexico because I had a biological intolerance for gift shops. The condition is called Montezuma II's revenge. (Few people realize this, but there were two Montezumas. Montezuma I is credited with lending his name to an urgency Americans refer to as the Green Apple Two-Step. Montezuma II is generally known as the patron saint of gift shops. Both are unkind to foreigners.)

With Montezuma II's revenge, I wouldn't be in the country five minutes before I got severe stomach cramps, my right hand would stiffen into the shape of a credit card; my step would quicken and I'd rush out into the streets shouting, "Cuanto? Cuanto?"

Despite all my precautions, on my recent vacation to Europe, I fell victim to the malady. Sometimes, early in the morning, I would leave my room and wander up and down sniffing the wind and saying, "I smell gift shops. Don't worry, I'll just buy a few cards and be back in time for lunch."

My husband was less than sympathetic. "Will you get hold of yourself!" Remember, you're on a ship and the last port when you tried to swim ashore you nearly drowned."

I was a woman obsessed. I bought a head scarf that when worn in the rain gave me a navy blue face. I bought a toilet tissue holder carved out of wood and held by a man with one tooth. I bought keyrings, flags, patches, and a left-handed letter opener made out of reindeer antlers. After awhile, I couldn't sit on a sight-seeing bus any longer than an hour or so before leaning over to the bus driver and saying, "Aren't we going to make a gift-shop stop soon?" "Is it absolutely necessary?" he'd plead. "Are you willing to take a chance it isn't?" I bought boxes of matches. T-shirts, paperweights, penants, ships in bottles, small glass ducks, corkscrews, and rocks with the Lord's Prayer on them. I bought a mouse for my charm bracelet, a cocktail apron, three cheese slicers with fur handles, a Spanish doll for my bed, a small chicken coming out of a snapstone egg, ashtrays, a set of coasters, a linen calendar with months I couldn't translate and a wild bear cookbook.

One night I met a woman with Montezuma I's Revenge roaming the deck. "I ate the lettuce," she said miserably. "What's your excuse?" "I spent it."

Coloma To Pick New Assessor

COLOMA — The Coloma city commission is slated to meet in special session tomorrow night to select a new city assessor, according to city officials. The 7:30 p.m. meeting in city hall was called after the man hired last week as assessor said he doesn't want the job because of confusion over the requirements for the post. William Colgren, Arlington township supervisor in Van Buren county, was hired by the commission at a $4,500 annual salary. However, he carries a level I assessor certification and a city the size of Coloma requires a level II. That, city officials later admitted, was something they didn't know when Colgren was hired. Because Colgren was sworn in, an official letter of resignation will probably be required, Coloma Mayor Glenn Randall said.

A Clean Sweep

CARROLL, Iowa (AP) — Many birds were without their usual bathing spots after youngsters swept through the northwest section of town grabbing bird baths, police said. Police Chief Muury Dion said the youngsters did not seem to care whose bird baths they stole. It was among the missing. Police, including Dion, were not aware of the thefts until neighbors of a vacant lot reported about 10 bird baths had been dumped there. "They said if anybody calls for the bird baths, 'we have a bunch of them here,'" Assistant Chief William Heller said. After arriving with two other officers to investigate, Dion noticed one of the baths looked like his. He went home and discovered it was. With the help of the local radio station, police broadcast news about the thefts and residents picked up their missing baths — all except for a small plastic slunk with a broken tail.

He Went Ape

MONTGOMERY, Pa. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ranck's 20-pound pet monkey is doing fine after sleeping off a rubbing alcohol hangover. The two-foot-tall pet got out of its cage, sampled some isopropyl alcohol and, said Patrolman Royce Bailey Jr., who found a small crowd gathered in front of the Ranck home as the monkey banged on a window. After several attempts to get the monkey back in its cage failed, local postmaster Wilbur Hicks suggested trying the spray used by mailmen to keep away dogs. "After chasing the monkey around the house for at least 15 minutes and probably looking like we were drunk ourselves, we managed to spray enough of the substance on the monkey and catch him in a net," Bailey said. The monkey was wrapped in a blanket and taken to an animal shelter, where it slept it off and was returned home.

Give Him What He Wants

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP) — The mayor of Liberia, Costa Rica, came for a visit and Homestead officials rolled out the garbage trucks in welcome. For his first official visit to Liberia's sister city, Mayor Manuel Francisco Rojas was rushed off Monday to the Homestead sewage treatment plant, sanitation yard and a trash dump. "It's what he wanted to see," explained Homestead Mayor Nick Sincore. He said Mrs. Rojas visited a beauty shop instead. Rojas said he was hoping to adapt Homestead's ways of collecting garbage and trash to his community since Liberia and the small Florida town of 20,000, about 35 miles southwest of Miami, are similar in size. But he said he found Homestead's system "not applicable" because Liberia has little money to buy enough garbage trucks. Rojas was in the area as part of a U.S. State Department tour set up for 12 South American mayors.

Experts Make Plea To Young Drivers

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Traffic safety experts are urging young drivers to help avoid a repeat of last year's near-record Labor Day traffic fatality total. More than half the 44 drivers involved in fatal crashes last Labor Day were under 20 years of age, a group that makes up only 20 percent of the state's drivers, the Auto Club of Michigan said Monday. Thirty-one persons were killed on the end-of-summer holiday in 1976, a figure eclipsed only by the tragic Labor Day weekend of 1968 that saw 51 killed. Arthur Gibson of the club's traffic and safety unit said half of the 26 at-fault drivers in last Labor Day weekend's fatal traffic accidents were known or suspected drinkers. Gibson said that "by keeping alcohol consumption to a minimum, confining most driving to daylight hours and not mixing driving with drinking, the young motorist can do much to keep holiday traffic deaths down and make this Labor Day weekend a safe one on state roads."

CHARDON, Ohio (AP) — A group of children in Geauga County successfully "patented" the Geauga County Commissioners for a redress of a grievance.

The 17 youngsters plotted together and handed a note to a workman who was putting up a fence around an open chlorine tank at the county's sewage treatment plant as a safety measure.

The note said, "Dear Sirs, This is a palatin to take down the fence at the end of Wenhaven Dr. It's the only way some kids can get to a pool!"

Then they returned with another piece of paper. This message was a little more determined. It said, "Dear Sirs, Please don't rip up the last note we gave you. Could you please give the last note to the person in charge of the Co. If you don't we'll send lots of notes to the government. We mean it!"

Both notes were given to the commissioners who ordered a bicycle path built through the brush around the tank.

The chief organizers of the petition drive were Ken Puzder, 11, and Dianne Kastelic, 10.

FAIR ANGLER: Tommy Gruss, 5, of St. Louis, Mo., found some fine fishing at Ohio State Fair in Columbus. Son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gruss, Tommy caught his first fish — a 1 1/2 pound catfish — while visiting outdoor exhibit sponsored by Ohio Department of Natural Resources. (AP Wirephoto)

Police said they broke through the back door of her house during the Memorial Day weekend while pursuing a felon.

Mrs. Davis, who was not at home at the time, said she first thought her home had been burglarized.

"The police left me a note. They said they made a mistake," she said Tuesday. "I was told to file a claim with the city."

Police Chief John A. Schoberth said the Davis case "was a freak thing that will probably never happen again."

He defended the police action, saying officers are "within their rights to use whatever force necessary in pursuit of a felon."

She Fights City Hall And Wins

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — After three months of persistent efforts, including a call to her congressman, Willie Kaye Davis has gotten the city to pay her the $306 it cost to fix a door which the cops broke down by mistake.

Police said they broke through the back door of her house during the Memorial Day weekend while pursuing a felon.

Mrs. Davis, who was not at home at the time, said she first thought her home had been burglarized.

"The police left me a note. They said they made a mistake," she said Tuesday. "I was told to file a claim with the city."

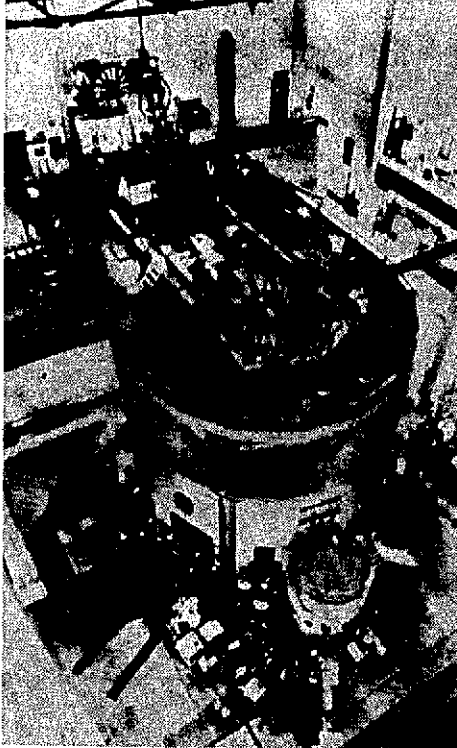

Police Chief John A. Schoberth said the Davis case "was a freak thing that will probably never happen again."

He defended the police action, saying officers are "within their rights to use whatever force necessary in pursuit of a felon."

Cancer Cause?

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The national Center for Disease Control now has a "working list" of men who may have increased their chances of getting cancer because they witnessed an atomic blast in Nevada 20 years ago today, the Salt Lake City Tribune said today.

The CDC will begin a study to see if the men, many of them soldiers who witnessed the blast under orders, are more prone to cancer than the average person.

New Buffalo To Get Additional Policing

Increased protection in the New Buffalo area included keeping the team office open from 8 a.m. to midnight. It now is open only one eight-hour shift. Gast said the assurances also included increasing personnel at the team office from 10 to 11 troopers, plus one or perhaps two sergeants.

Gast said in the future there may be merit for a central post-team concept. Gast said the Benton Harbor post off M-139 near I-94 is in rented quarters.

Gast said state police officials report that under the team concept, troopers may take patrol cars to their homes and respond to calls directly from their homes, as well as an office. Gast said he also understands that at home, troopers often clean and wax the patrol cars, keep them up and otherwise cut department maintenance costs.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Woman Grabbed In Gunshot Probe

A Benton Harbor woman was arrested Tuesday after a pistol shot allegedly was fired at her daughter in front of a Brunson avenue home, city police reported.

Booked at Berrien county jail for investigation of a charge of assault with a deadly weapon was Amelia Depriest, 46, of 300 Brunson.

Pagels reported he was dispatched to Mrs. Depriest's home at 2:40 p.m. after police received a report a shot had been fired.

Pagels said Nancy Depriest, 17, of 425 Vineyard street, identified as Amelia Depriest's daughter, said she fled behind a tree just before hearing a shot. Pagels said a single slug had struck the tree about seven feet above the ground.

The gunshot eliminated a quarrel between two women, Pagels said. A .38 caliber pistol was found at the scene.

Benton Harbor police said Lorraine Fredricks, 484 Colfax avenue, reported her 1969 Datsun station wagon was stolen from behind her home between 1:30 and 8:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Two other thefts were reported by Benton Harbor police: —Stereo speakers, hair clippers and a number of record albums valued at a total of $120 from the home of Albert Johnson, 884 Lavette street.

—A television valued at $89 from the home of Rita Brogan, 309 Ross street.

Berrien sheriff's officers reported these thefts: —A golf bag and clubs valued at $300 from an auto owned by Craig Kettlehut, 714 Myrtle avenue, St. Joseph, while the car was parked at Lake Michigan Hills golf course, Kerkikowske road, Hagar township.

—A CB radio valued at $166 from an auto owned by James Lamp Jr., P.O. Box 532, Paw Paw lake road, Watervliet township, while the car was parked at that address.

—A CB antenna valued at $30 from a car owned by Lennie R. Brinkley, Havelock, N.C., while the auto was parked on First street in Baroda.

St. Joseph township police said two 10-speed bicycles valued at a total of $200 were stolen from a garage at the Benjamin Sims residence, 1781 Broadmoor.

St. Joseph township officers also reported two speakers valued at a total of $40 were stolen from an auto parked in a garage at the Chris Bushert home, 3080 Lakeshore drive.

Benton township police said two residents of Hull's Terra apartments, 1946 East Britain avenue, reported hubcaps stolen from their cars. Police said the complaints were filed by Howard Hunter and Rachel Palmer.

October Pay Increase Due

WASHINGTON (AP) — White-collar federal employees and the military will get a pay raise in October, President Carter will decide next month how much.

Carter announced Tuesday that he has decided to increase the pay for 3.4 million government employees, excluding those at the highest income levels.

That exempts members of Congress. Their salary went up nearly by $13,000 to $57,500 a year in February.

The increase is designed to make government salaries comparable to pay in private business.

Mittan's Aide Hurt In Crash

LANSING — Frances Archer, legislative secretary for Rep. Ray Mittan (R-Niles) was reported in "fair" condition this morning in a Lansing hospital after a two-car accident here Monday. Mrs. Archer sustained a shattered hip in the accident and is scheduled for surgery this afternoon at Ingham County medical center, according to Carmen Seats, executive secretary for the House Republican office. Seats said the accident occurred about two blocks from the capitol building Monday morning when Mrs. Archer was on her way to work. A motorist ran a red light striking the driver's side of Mrs. Archer's car, Seats said. Mrs. Archer, 32, is formerly of Watervliet. She has worked for Mittan since 1969. Mrs. Archer now lives at 3505 Schlee street, Lansing.

Plenty Of Gas; Price Is Down

Motorists traveling main state highways over the upcoming Labor Day weekend will find plenty of gasoline and will pay slightly less than last week for both regular and unleaded fuel, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

Auto Club's weekly "fuel gauge" survey of 300 major-brand stations along main state travel arteries found 85 percent will pump gasoline during daylight hours throughout the 78-hour holiday period.

Regular gasoline at those surveyed stations averaged 65.6 cents per gallon, down two-tenths of a cent from a week ago. Costs ranged from 57.9 to 74.9 cents per gallon.

No-lead fuel at those stations averaged 68.7 cents per gallon, down one-tenth of a cent from last week and ranging from 61.9 to 76.9 cents.

At self-serve stations surveyed, regular gasoline averaged 61.6 cents per gallon, four cents below the statewide average.

Twenty-two percent of those stations along tourist arteries sold unleaded premium gasoline. It averaged 73.5 cents per gallon, six-tenths of a cent above last month's price. Auto Club's monthly price check of the new gas found costs ranging from 66.9 to 75.9 cents per gallon.

Detroit-area motorists will find the average price of regular gasoline up one-tenth of a cent from last week to 63.7 cents per gallon, based on a check of 100 area stations. Prices varied from 57.9 to 68.9 cents per gallon.

Holiday motorists will find the average cost of unleaded gas in Metropolitan Detroit up three-tenths of a cent to 67.9 cents per gallon. The price spread was from 60.9 to 71.9 cents.

A check of Detroit-area independent dealers showed regular gas averaging 59.3 cents per gallon, one-tenth of a cent lower than a week ago. Prices ranged from 57.9 to 60.9 cents.

Twenty-nine percent of the Detroit-area stations polled sold unleaded premium gas at an average 72 cents per gallon, the same as last month. Costs ranged from 66.9 to 75.9 cents.

The survey showed the following daily breakdown of holiday weekend hours at stations along main tourist arteries:

Friday (Sept. 2) — 100 percent open daylight hours, 61 percent after 9 p.m. and 17 percent after midnight.

Saturday (Sept. 3) — 100 percent open daylight hours, 60 percent after 9 p.m. and 17 percent after midnight.

Sunday (Sept. 4) — 87 percent open daylight hours, 55 percent after 9 p.m. and 16 percent after midnight.

Monday (Sept. 5) — 90 percent open daylight hours, 58 percent after 9 p.m. and 16 percent after midnight.

Berrien's Center Is A 'Model'

The design of the Berrien county juvenile center was selected as one of 16 model correctional institutions for viewing at the 107th Congress of Corrections last week at Milwaukee, Wis.

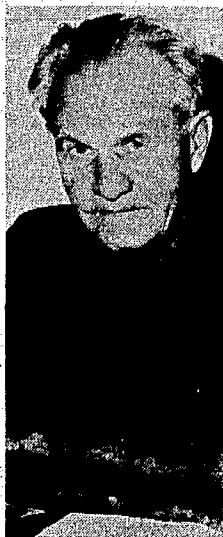

The congress was sponsored by the American Correctional association. Anthony P. Travisono, association executive director, said the Berrien center was selected for its overall design, attractive furnishings and pleasant environment.

The design was submitted by Robert Cain of Cain Associates Architects, Kalamazoo, and was selected by a screening jury of correctional association members and the American Institute of Architects.

Charles J. Kehoe, director of juvenile court services, and Don Mead, juvenile center director, represented Berrien county at the congress.

The Berrien juvenile center at Berrien Center was opened in 1974 at a cost of $1.4 million.

TED BLAHNIK
Recalls ship sinking

COLOMA — A Coloma man is mentioned in a new historical book about World War II quoting his recollections of the sinking of the ship he and 879 other men were on, forcing some of the survivors to spend three days floating in the Pacific.

Ted Blahnik, athletic director at Coloma high school, reminisces about the sinking of the USS Helena, a light cruiser, off the Solomon Islands, in a chapter of a new book by Walter Lord, "The Lonely Vigil: Coastwatchers of the Solomons."

Blahnik, 55, said Lord interviewed survivors of the Helena sinking at a reunion of the survivors three years ago in Las Vegas. Lord is also author of "Day of Infamy," an account of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, and "A Night to Remember," a book about the sinking of the Titanic.

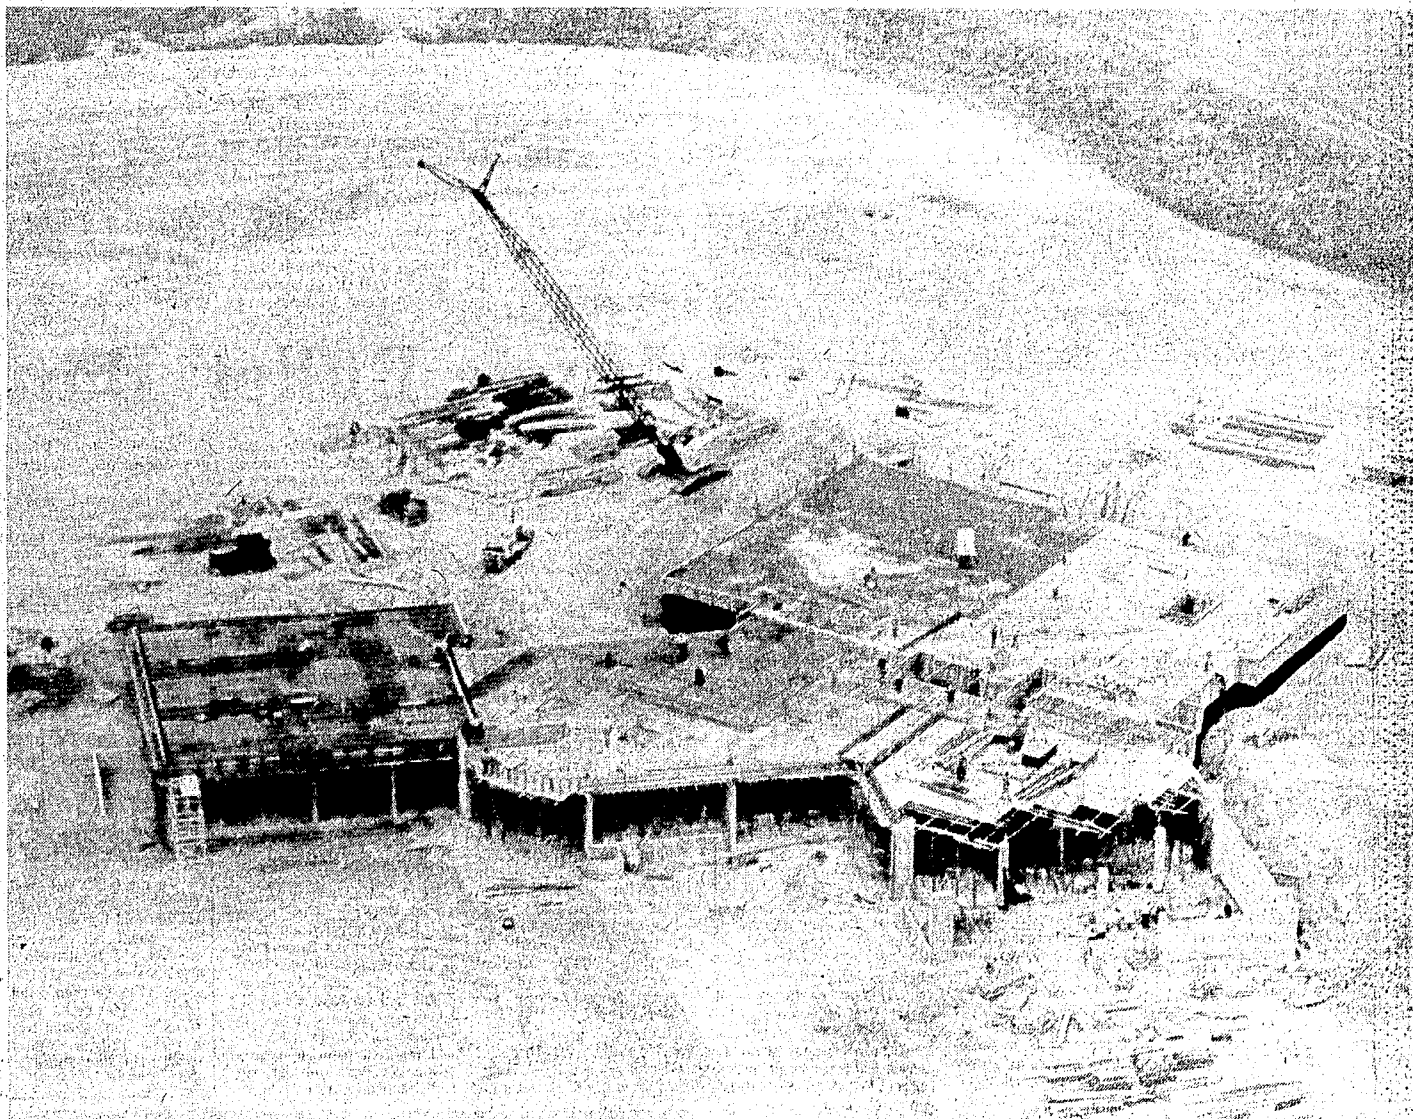

The Helena, which survived the Pearl Harbor attack with Blahnik aboard, sank in about 25 minutes on July 6, 1943, after it was hit by three torpedoes from a Japanese submarine. Of the 880 men on the ship, 180 were lost, 535 were picked up later at the sinking scene by U.S. rescue ships, and 165 men, including Third Class Petty Officer Blahnik, floated on a raft and swam for 69 hours before drifting to a Japanese-occupied island.

Just before reaching the beach, the men were picked up by natives in outrigger canoes, the "coastwatchers," who hid the men on the island until a U.S. rescue party picked them up.

Blahnik recalls in the book that while the men were quietly waiting to rendezvous with the U.S. rescue party, a baby of a Chinese family that was also hiding on the island, cried. "It was the loudest noise I've ever heard," Blahnik says in the book. "I almost ruined relations with China."

Blahnik said after the rescue, he spent the remaining years of his six-year enlistment with the Navy on the battleship Wisconsin.

Blahnik and his wife, Jean, have two grown sons and a daughter and live on Paw Paw lake road, Coloma township.

WORK PROGRESSING: Structural work on basement and first floor of new Watervliet Community hospital is nearly finished as seen in this aerial photo by Adolph Hann. Work on project is continuing on schedule, according to Kaylor Shemberger, hospital administrator. Expected completion date is December, 1978. Shemberger said workmen hope to have structural work on basement and all three floors of hospital completed and enclosed before winter. New $6 million hospital, including land, site improvement, utilities, construction and equipment, is being built directly behind Watervliet high school. Construction is being financed through $5.2 million FHA 40-year, five per cent loan, and money raised from local fund drive. New hospital will be 56,000 square feet with 70 beds. It will replace present 63-bed hospital in downtown Watervliet. Pearson Construction Co., Benton Harbor, is general contractor.

South Haven Teachers To Work

BY TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — Teachers in the South Haven Public schools system say they will be on the job when classes start Friday despite the lack of a press briefing last night.

Negotiations have not started while the teachers and school board await the ruling of the state employment relations commission as to whether the teachers can conduct an election

The South Haven and Paw Paw school districts are the only systems in Van Buren county negotiating a new master contract this year.

Teachers in the Bloomingdale, Covert, Hartford and tough attitude among the (school) boards this year," said Larsen, admitting that he is surprised that none of the districts have concluded negotiations.

He said none of the districts that are negotiating have offered the teachers a salary increase over four percent.

Verdis Burrows, incoming president of the SHEA, said last night that the impasse in negotiations will have no effect on the opening of school. Students report for half-a-day Friday and begin on a fulltime basis next Tuesday.

"We have offered to open talks because our negotiating team will be the same whether under the current bargaining agent or the new one," said Mrs. Burrows.

The school board has refused to negotiate on advice from their attorney.

The teachers insist they will retain their autonomy even after a change in bargaining representative.

"South Haven teachers will negotiate and ratify their own contract," insists Mrs. Burrows.

The SHEA officials say that 85 percent of its members signed cards seeking the election to change representatives.

At a hearing in June, according to the teachers, the school board focused their objections to the election over the eligibility of some teachers to be members of the association.

The school board reportedly said that teachers who are department heads or head coaches should not be a part of the association because of their supervisory responsibilities. The association argues that personnel with those duties were hired as teachers first. A ruling from the state was promised for late this month, but has not yet been received.

The teachers feel the school board is not speaking to the issue, but is basing their position on hypothetical fear over something that might happen in the future, according to Mrs. Burrows.

"The board feels they are protecting the teachers from losing control, but we are confident we will retain our rights as a local unit," Mrs. Burrows added.

Larsen said the reason behind creating a formal county bargaining group is to improve communication between teachers in different districts.

"In the past teachers have tended to feel isolated (in their bargaining)," said Larsen. "With a county association the teachers probably are not going to concede as quickly because they will be better informed, but the decision will still be their's."

Gary Scott, negotiations chairman for the SHEA, said the South Haven teachers have technically been represented by the county association in the past, noting that the membership would change from a voluntary one to an organized one.

The teachers say that in addition to declining to negotiate, the school board has refused to extend the previous contract which expired Aug. 15.

"The school board has created a public relations problem with the teachers because those entitled to step increases under the old agreement will have to wait," said Scott.

master contract with the board of education.

Representatives of the South Haven Education association (SHEA) and Michigan Education association (MEA) offered the reassurances as well as their position on a dispute with the board of education during a on a proposed change in their bargaining representative.

The teachers are considering having the Van Buren County Education association as their bargaining representative, but the school board has objected, fearing it will lead to regionalized negotiations.

Lawrence districts have reopened the economic aspects of their contract.

Harold Larsen, area representative for the MEA, said last night that none of the districts are close to ratifying an agreement.

'Anita' Loiters Off Gulf Coast

By BILL CRIDER
Associated Press Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Hurricane Anita churned slowly westward in the warm Gulf of Mexico today, some 300 miles from New Orleans, growing stronger while thousands of jittery coastal residents worried and watched.

Forecasters said the storm, packing 90-mile-per-hour winds and pushing high tides before it, was expected to continue a slow drift westward across the Gulf, skirting along the shore, toward Texas.

A weather service advisory located the storm center at latitude 26.3 north and longitude 91.2 west, south-southwest of New Orleans. Gale winds extending 150 miles to the east and 100 miles west.

Anita drove high tides onto the low-lying Gulf shore, causing bayous and rivers to run over their banks, and was within easy striking distance of land if it veered north.

A total of 4,500 offshore oil workers were evacuated to shore Tuesday and 10,000 residents at vulnerable points along 430 miles of coast were advised to head inland to avoid becoming trapped.

"Hurricane watch" status extended from Louisiana's Vermilion Bay, which lies south of New Iberia, westward to the Mexican border, with residents warned to be ready to move if necessary.

Critics Say Volare, Aspen Big 'Lemons' At Chrysler

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1976 Dodge Aspen and Plymouth Volare have been labeled Chrysler Corporation's "biggest lemons" by a consumer group citing numerous customer complaints about defects.

Chrysler says the group's charge is "irresponsible."

The Center for Auto Safety, in a letter Tuesday to Chrysler chairman John J. Riccardo, asked the company to correct what it said were problems with these and other Chrysler models.

A Chrysler spokesman in Detroit said the complaint letters cited by the Center "represent less than four-hundredths of one per cent of more than 1.2 million Aspens and Volares on the road."

"The Center conveniently ignores the overwhelming majority of Aspen and Volare owners who are pleased with the quality and reliability of these cars," the spokesman added.

The Center said its investigation found "disturbing safety and consumer problems as well as poor quality control ... particularly in five very troublesome areas: carburetor, brakes, transmission, steering and fuel economy."

"During the past two years, letters from frustrated and disappointed Chrysler owners have arrived at the center in proportionally greater numbers than for other manufacturers," the letter said.

Hearing Aid Deceit Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Deceived by profit-hungry salesmen, Americans with hearing problems often purchase expensive hearing aids that offer little help, a report to the Federal Trade Commission says.

Some consumers would be better off with surgery. Others are sold used hearing aids by dealers anxious to make a sale, said the report.

The FTC official who wrote the report, G. Martin Shepherd, recommended adoption of several rules proposed by the agency to prevent unfair and deceptive practices in the advertising, promotion and sale of hearing aids.

Dealers paid an average of $100 for a hearing aid in 1975, the report said. The same devices were sold to consumers at an average price of $330, Shepherd said.

'Magic Bullet' Battle Continues

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Since the turn of the century, the Food and Drug Administration has confronted one "magic bullet" cancer cure after another, ranging from a backwoods herbal remedy to a compound made from animal blood.

Remember Krebiozen? The Rand Vaccine? The Hoxsey Treatment? All were promoted as cancer cures. All were shot down.

Now the FDA is combatting a well-organized drive to legalize Laetrile, a fruit pit derivative claimed by some to be effective against cancer.

"One would think that with what is known today, medically and scientifically ... quackery would die out. And yet people continue to rely on quackery, on fads, on treatments," says FDA spokesman Wayne Pines.

But Pines predicted in an interview such cures will be promoted "until medical science can come up with some better treatments for cancer or some real cures."

The Laetrile boom began in the late 1960s, on the heels of the Krebiozen and Rand Treatment promotions. Backers of all three substances claim that "organized medicine hinders their efforts to promote the real cure for the disease," Pines said.

He noted that promoters invariably offer "a simplistic reason for the cause of cancer and how their drug works. Actually cancer is a hundred different diseases and it is doubtful there will ever be a magic bullet."

Among other "cures" the FDA has shot down are:

—The Rand Vaccine, which became a sensation in 1966.

The "vaccine" proved to be "crudely made from the blood of animals which had been injected with materials from human cancers collected in-

Jean Hagen, Actress, Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Jean Hagen, given a 50-50 chance to live in her battle against throat cancer, traveled to Germany on the advice of friends to be treated with Laetrile.

"To me that's not good enough," she said when doctors told her early this year about her survival chances. "I wanted very much to live."

But the screen and television actress died Monday in suburban Woodland Hills, a hospital spokesman said Tuesday. She was 52.

A Little Table-Turning

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Mayor Coleman Young is trying to turn the tables on his primary election opponents who accused him of injecting racism into the campaign. Young denied Tuesday he was playing on racial emotions and accused three opponents of "appealing to the basest and worst instincts of the white community."

The Sept. 13 election pits Young against black city councilman Ernest Browne and whites Thomas Daley and John Mook, among others. He cited them in his accusations of racism.

Young conceded he made a mistake Aug. 21 when he referred to Browne as "a black white hope" in the mayoral campaign. The Motor City's first black mayor told a group of black clergymen he regretted having made the statement about Browne, a remark some criticized as racist. "I believe the only basis for racial harmony and peace in this city or any other city has got to be on racial equality," he said. "I don't believe in discriminating against white people. In order to create equal opportunity there had to be some special steps taken."

Neighbor To The Rescue

Russell Rutt, 52, of Ann Arbor, stands next to melted telephone in the burned-out room of a fellow tenant. City firefighters say Rutt, a barber, saved the life of 66-year-old Kathleen Jones in a fire in the Jones apartment, located in a solidly-built frame house.

Rutt, who lives in the same building, says he heard the woman scrambling about in the room, then rushed to get the building's master key and unlocked the door for her.

He pulled her from the smoke-filled room, saving her from what one fireman said was "almost certain death." The rest of the building was salvaged. (AP Wirephoto)

No More Republicans, Foes Say

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Senate Democratic leaders say they won't approve any more Republicans for the Michigan Women's Commission, and want broader representation on the panel.

Top Democrats decided Tuesday to accept Gov. William Milliken's latest appointment to the commission. But in speeches on the Senate floor, they told him to avoid GOP faithful in four upcoming appointments to the body.

If Milliken persists in appointing Republicans to the commission, they said, they will work to reject the nominees until the panel has a better balance of blacks, Jews, poor and Democrats.

The appointment of Mary Low, a state labor department employee, sparked a long hearing Monday by the Senate Business Committee, which reviews gubernatorial appointments. The full Senate has until Sept. 7 to reject the appointment, when it will take effect automatically.

At the hearing, Democratic members and several women — including two Republicans — accused Milliken of stacking the panel with Republican women and ignoring legal requirements that the commission be broadly representative of Michigan women.

The panel put off action while deciding whether to oppose the appointment. Tuesday, members decided not to reject Miss Low. But they made clear the governor should heed their warning in making future appointments.

"Miss Low's credentials were extraordinarily good...she is a charming woman, her academic background was impeccable," said Democratic Floor Leader Daniel Cooper of Oak Park in a statement in the Senate.

"I do not feel she should not be confirmed because of the governor's insensitivity," Cooper said. "But I will not support another Republican woman on the Women's Commission, and I feel my colleagues feel the same way. If the governor appoints another Republican woman, I will do my best to see she is not confirmed."

Senate Majority Leader William Faust, D-Westland, agreed with Cooper. "I would like to serve notice to the governor," he said, "that he won't have my vote" unless he selects more diverse nominees for the commission.

There are only two Democrats on the commission, and the Republican count is put at anywhere from seven to 10. There are no blacks or Jewish women, lawmakers said.

They're Mad At Milliken

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Democratic legislative leaders were mad in June and they're still mad at Gov. William Milliken's failure to submit a highway department budget. They said Tuesday the governor is neglecting his executive responsibilities and urged him to act quickly on the budget. Milliken has delayed announcing the budget while he works on a transportation plan that would boost taxes on gasoline cars. No agreement on that proposal has been reached among the governor and lawmakers. Senate Majority Leader William Faust of Westland said Milliken was reminded in June that no budget recommendation had been made.

STATE LAWMAKERS

Summer Break Expands

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State lawmakers will return to work five days later than planned next month after interrupting their summer vacation for a day to approve a key budget bill.

The legislature held a rare one-day session Tuesday to put the final touches on a $97.5 million measure enabling the state to pay its bills until the end of the fiscal year Sept. 30.

That accomplished, lawmakers broke until Sept. 19. They were slated to return Sept. 14, but leaders said Tuesday's session interrupted installation of extra soundproofing in the House, and the work will not be done by the 14th as scheduled.

The budget bill, which contains $1.7 million to help convert part of Kitchel Air Force Base into a prison, cleared the Senate on a show of hands. It needed 26 votes to take immediate effect and permit spending upon the governor's signature, and got exactly that number.

Senate action came only after leaders talked to Gov. William Milliken by phone about his plans for the bill. Budget Director Gerald Miller told them the governor might veto certain items he found unnecessary.

Milliken told lawmakers, however, that he would not veto funds they targeted for the purchase or renovation of two office buildings. And he said other spending would not be killed, but possibly put off until the new fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

The House then passed the bill 81-8 and sent it to Milliken for his signature.

State budget officials said they really didn't need the money before lawmakers returned as slated Sept. 14. They have acknowledged spending some of it — technically illegally — on the assumption final passage would be routine.

But legislative leaders, told some funds were needed promptly, called their troops back for a rare interruption in their summer recess.

The measure also contained $2.6 million to continue state police patrols on Detroit freeways for the final month of the fiscal year, and money for payrolls and other costs in a variety of state departments.

State Is Taking Second Look At Juvenile Court Proposals

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Heated criticism from the public and some juvenile justice experts has led a special state commission to take a second look at two of its most controversial recommendations.

The Juvenile Justice Services Commission proposed in a preliminary report recently that 17-year-old offenders be handled by juvenile courts instead of adult courts. And it urged that "status offenses" such as truancy and running away be taken out of the court's jurisdiction.

But after negative reaction, the commission has tentatively agreed that only abused or neglected 17-year-olds — not those involved in crime — should be shifted from adult court to juvenile court.

And it has assigned a committee to re-examine what to do about status offenses — which are crimes only because of the offender's age.

The commission issued its preliminary report this summer after almost two years of work. It contained some 126 proposed changes in current law, and was the subject of a series of public hearings earlier this month.

The commission will meet again next month to discuss changes in its proposal and listen to a report from the committee on status offenses.

Canal Booster List Is Growing

By RICHARD E. MEYER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is piling up endorsements, pitching for local support and planning the biggest formal blowout the White House has ever seen to promote his treaty to give up control of the Panama Canal.

White House mail is overwhelmingly against the treaty.

"This is one of those items that falls on the shoulders of leaders which is not a popular thing," Carter said Tuesday in a sales talk to civic leaders from Florida and Georgia. "Many American citizens, well educated and very patriotic, think the treaty is not a good idea."

"To change their concepts is my responsibility — not to cajole, not to pressure, but, in a way, to educate, to lead. I would like you to join with me, if you can in good conscience, in that effort."

Carter got immediate help from former Secretary of State Dean Rusk. He was part of the Georgia delegation to a briefing by the President and his aides in the state dining room at the White House. Afterward, Rusk, secretary of state during the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, was brought out to talk to reporters.

He said Congress should give Carter the treaty or unlimited power to defend the Panama Canal from guerrilla warfare.

If the Senate rejects the treaty, Rusk said, "I think it would be irresponsible for the Congress not to exempt Panama from the War Powers Resolution." It requires presidents to justify any troop deployments that last longer than 60 days.

Will there be guerrilla war in Panama if the treaty dies?

"I would hope that would not occur," Rusk said. But to suppose that, he added, would be "foolhardy."

Carter also has won treaty support from former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who served in the Nixon and Ford administrations.

As Carter planned similar briefings for other state and local leaders, the AFL-CIO formally endorsed the treaty, calling it an "enduring basis for harmony in the western Hemisphere." The United Auto Workers union followed suit.

The President's staff set to work planning a White House state dinner next Wednesday for visiting heads of state who will observe the treaty signing at the headquarters here of the Organization of American States.

"Outside of a funeral for a President, never have there been so many heads of state for an official state function," said Mary Hoyt, a spokeswoman for First Lady Rosalynn Carter.

As of Tuesday, 18 heads of state were planning to attend the signing ceremony. State Department spokesman Hodding Carter III said the final figure may exceed 20.

UAW Leaders Like Canal Pact

DETROIT (AP) — Leaders of the United Auto Workers have joined AFL-CIO President George Meany in calling for Senate ratification of the controversial Panama Canal Treaty proposal.

UAW leaders called the treaty a "long overdue diplomatic effort" which should be ratified by the Senate promptly.

Anti-Inflation Program Eyed

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is at work on new measures to reduce inflation, possibly including voluntary standards for wage and price increases. Administration economists have concluded the April program announced by President Carter will be insufficient to reduce inflation much below the current rate of between 6 and 7 per cent, it was learned Tuesday.

Work on developing wage and price standards is scheduled to begin within a month, and, if approved, they could be ready within six months. They would vary from industry to industry. The administration's goal is to reduce inflation to about 4 per cent by 1981.

Although it was understood that one administration official favors the wage-price standards as the best of the various options under consideration, it is not certain they will be adopted.

"It hasn't gone very far yet. At this stage, it has not advanced further than an option under consideration," said one administration source. The standards would need to be cleared with the Labor-Management Group, a 16-member body of top corporate and union executives, most of whom have argued against anything that resembles wage and price controls.

The Carter administration believes that no anti-inflation program will be successful unless it receives the cooperation of top labor unions and businesses. As a result, the Labor-Management Group has become the key sounding board for anti-inflation plans. One provision of Carter's April program called for administration officials to meet regularly with the Labor-Management Group to discuss ways of controlling inflation. Administration officials believe these meetings have been so fruitful that it now will be possible to undertake new measures without arousing fears they will be the first step toward wage and price controls.

While options besides wage and price standards are understood to be under consideration, one administration official believes that they are among the few possibilities available since Carter is ruling out controls. However, other administration officials are known to be skeptical that the standards would win support or would be workable.

The exact form that voluntary wage and price standards would take remains to be worked out. But they would vary from industry to industry since the extent of recovery from the recent recession has not been the same for all industries and their workers.

Warrant Sought Against Diabetic After St. Joe Crash

By JIM DeLAND
Assistant City Editor

St. Joseph police are seeking a warrant for felonious driving against a St. Joseph insurance man they say crashed head-on into an unmarked patrol car while driving at an estimated 60 miles an hour in the wrong lane of Main street last night.

The driver of the car was identified as Walter F. Gephart, 61, 515 Whitlesey, who was admitted to Memorial hospital last night for treatment of facial cuts and a broken nose.

Police Chief William Mihalik said tests also showed that Gephart had a low blood sugar count, confirming suspicions that he was suffering an insulin reaction at the time of the crash.

Mihalik said Gephart has a history of diabetic problems that involved the St. Joseph police department three times during a one-month period from July 12 to Aug. 10 of this year.

Following an auto accident on Aug. 1, police submitted notice to the state calling for a driver's license re-examination, Mihalik said.

Also injured in last night's crash was Police Sgt. Richard Eggleston, who said he was stopped in the southbound lane of Main street near Washington school when Gephart's car crossed the median and plowed into the right front of his squad car, spinning the patrol car 360 degrees and knocking down a median traffic sign.

Sgt. Eggleston was reported in satisfactory condition this morning at Memorial hospital after being treated for broken ribs and injuries to his back and legs.

Police said they were notified shortly after 9:40 p.m. yesterday that a man was slumped over the wheel of a stopped car headed north in the southbound lane of Niles avenue at Main street.

Patrolman Ted Post said he received no response from the man after arriving at the scene and that while he was radioing for assistance the driver started the vehicle and headed north at a high rate of speed.

Sgt. Eggleston said he was north of Market and Main streets at the time he received the call and intended to cut off the car at Market, but that when he saw how fast the car was coming toward him in the wrong lane, he stopped and lay down on the seat before impact.

Gephart was varsity football coach at St. Joseph high school from 1951-53 and has been a Mutual of New York insurance agent since leaving teaching in 1964.

Mihalik said police records show they were called to his office at 208½ State street on July 12 and on Aug. 10 to assist a victim of insulin shock. He said Gephart was taken to the Memorial hospital emergency room by ambulance each time.

The incident marked the second time Sgt. Eggleston was injured while on patrol for the St. Joseph police department — his squad car and a dune buggy collided on Broad street on Oct. 15, 1967.

ambulance attendants after head-on crash Tuesday night on Main street. Police said Gephart was traveling in wrong lane at time of the crash and estimated his speed at 60 miles an hour. (C.C. Brooks photos)

Cass Votes To Keep Metro Crime, Drug Units

CASSOPOLIS — The Cass county board of commissioners at a special meeting last night voted to retain the metro drug and crime units operated by the sheriff's department.

The vote to continue the operations as requested by Sheriff James Northrop was prompted because current Law Enforcement Assistance Administration grants which now underwrite 50 per cent of the operations expire Sept. 30.

The board voted to apply for a nine-month extension on the federal grant that pays for half of the cost for the four-man crime unit. The board also voted to spend $23,000, the county's half of the estimated $46,000 it will cost to continue the crime unit for nine more months. The action keeps the crime unit in action until June 30 of next year.

The three-member narcotics squad was extended until Dec. 31 by board action to spend about $9,400, the estimated entire cost of the operation for the three months.

County anti-recessionary funds will be used to pay for both the crime and narcotics units.

Also last night Charles

Springsteen, of Dowagiac, submitted the low bid of $3,100 to appraise 79 pieces of farm property in the county.

The appraisals were ordered by the state tax commission. Some rural residents have complained to the board that farm assessments are too high.

Springsteen will complete the appraisals by Nov. 20. The board stressed that appraisals should be made on the basis of the income earned on the farm and not the sales price of farm land.

Paper May Be Struck

DETROIT (AP) — Circulation and distribution workers at the Detroit News have voted to strike the newspaper Friday night unless agreement is reached on a contract, union officials say.

Leaders of Teamsters Local 372 said Tuesday the 700 members voted 345 to 58 to authorize the strike. Elton Schaale, a union official, said bargainers for the News and the Teamsters would meet today with a federal mediator. Contracts at both The News and Detroit Free Press expired June 17 and most of the unions involved have since ratified new pacts. Still unresolved are contracts between the pressmen's union and the News and between the Teamsters and the News and Free Press.

Jail Inmates Covered, Too

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Inmates who escape from county jails face the same charges for crimes committed while at large as inmates who escape from prison, the state attorney general ruled.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said a state law which spells out penalties for crimes committed by escaped inmates applies to jail inmates as well as prison inmates. Under law, the sentence for such a crime must be served at the end of the sentence the inmate was serving when he escaped rather than concurrently with his original sentence.

'Son Of Sam' Suspect Too Crazy For Trial?

NEW YORK (AP) — In the first of a series of psychiatric examinations, David Berkowitz, accused as the "Son of Sam" killer, has been found unfit to be tried, but one prosecutor says further tests will clear the way for a trial.

In a report unsealed Tuesday, court-appointed psychiatrists said the 24-year-old former postal employee was suffering from paranoia, delusions of persecution or grandeur. His chances of recovery were described as "guarded," meaning they do not know whether his mental condition will ever improve.

But Brooklyn Dist. Atty. Eugene Gold asked for and received the right to have psychiatrists of his choosing examine Berkowitz. He predicted that the suspect eventually will be judged competent and will stand trial for the murder of six persons and the attempted murder of seven more during a year-long shooting spree in New York City.

Justice Gerald Held of State Supreme Court, sitting in Brooklyn and presiding over the proceedings, gave the state until Oct. 4 to present any data that might open the way to a trial.

"... As a result of mental disease or defect," they wrote in summing up eight typewritten pages. Berkowitz "lacks capacity to understand the proceedings against him or to assist in his own defense." This precisely meets the state's criteria for mental incompetence.

Legal experts say a final court ruling of incompetence would mean that the suspect would be confined to a state facility for the criminally insane for an indefinite period. If his mental state improved, he could be brought to trial, assuming that witnesses were still available, but it is also possible that within a few years all charges against him would have to be dropped.

One of the most famous precedents for this situation involved George Metesky, the Mad Bomber who terrorized New York City for 16 years. He was confined to Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminally Insane after the courts found him incapable of standing trial.

After being committed in 1957, Metesky was released in 1973 and not tried. He is living in Connecticut.

The report that Berkowitz was not competent to stand trial was not taken pleasantly by friends and relatives of his alleged victims.

Neyssa Moskowitz, mother of the killer's last murder victim, said, "I can't buy it. I'm sorry."

She said Berkowitz should be "pulled apart bit by bit." Berkowitz has been indicted for killing the woman's 20-year-old daughter, Stacy, and for attempting to kill her date, Robert Violante, also 20.

Meanwhile, it was reported that a fellow inmate at the hospital attacked Berkowitz Sunday after breakfast, throwing "one glancing blow" at him in a shower area after claiming that the suspect stole his slippers. The two were separated and Berkowitz was uninjured.

The other inmate, Carmelo Colon, is under psychiatric observation for allegedly attacking three Brooklyn police officers with a nightstick.

Youth, 13, Accused Of Break-In

COLOMA — Coloma township police said a 13-year-old boy was taken into custody yesterday in connection with a break-in at a township residence last Saturday.

Police said the Coloma township youth was later turned over to his parents pending petitioning to juvenile court on a charge of breaking and entering.

Police said an estimated $130 in cash was reported stolen from the Violet Bailey residence, 6046 Johnson road. The home was entered through a window, police said.

Robert Cottier, township police chief, reported that $47 of the missing money has been located.

TOOTHBRUSH REVAMPED: Robert Velasquez, of Detroit, holds conventional toothbrush beside wooden prototype he has designed. His design, at right, has small valley running down center of brush which he claims allows brush to more effectively reach nooks and crannies in teeth. Brush is on rotating platform, giving the business end a swivel effect as it makes its appointed dental rounds. (AP Wirephoto)

Driver Freed; Then Car Burns

DOWAGIAC — Unidentified good Samaritans pulled a young woman from her wrecked auto yesterday just before the vehicle burst into flames, Cass county sheriff's deputies said.

Deputies said the driver of the auto, Luann Saintin, 21, route 5, Dowagiac, was reported in stable condition today at Lee Memorial hospital, Dowagiac.

The 3:40 p.m. accident occurred on M-51 near Wells street about six miles south of Dowagiac. Deputies said the car apparently went out of control, traveled off the roadway several hundred feet and slammed into a tree. Deputy Terry DeWald who investigated the crash said the people who pulled the young woman from the car left the scene before he could get their names. No tickets were issued, deputies said.

Air's 'Cleaner' Being Robbed?

CHICAGO (AP) — Carbon monoxide may contribute to the destruction of the earth's protective ozone layer by robbing the lower atmosphere of a natural substance that "cleans" the air of harmful gasses, chemists reported today.

The depletion of the chemical cleansing substances referred to as hydroxyls, or OH, allows industrial gasses to escape from the lower atmosphere, posing a threat to the ozone layer, the researchers said in papers to be presented to the annual meeting here of the American Chemical Society.

State Seeking Buyers For Deadly Chemical

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — For sale: 23,000 pounds of a deadly chemical.

Michigan officials are scrambling to find a buyer for six large tanks full of the chemical phosgene stored at a plant owned by a bankrupt chemical company.

Civil Defense volunteers, fearful that the tanks could be vandalized or ruptured and leak the substance into the environment, began 24-hour patrols Tuesday of the Story Chemical Co. plant three miles north of here.

Meanwhile, CD officials are drawing up contingency plans for evacuating a 100-square-mile area. But they cautioned that the tanks are in good condition and are not leaking.

Health authorities contacted residents near the plant, assuring them the chemical problems would not affect their wells. It had been disclosed that Story has been paying for bottled water for those areas in which wells may have been affected by toxin leaking into the ground.

Carbonyl chloride — or phosgene — is a volatile toxin used in World War I chemical warfare. It is colorless and has the odor of new-mown hay. It had been manufactured for years by Story as a plastics component.

The chemical is stored in liquid form. But if pressure is released, it turns into a gas which becomes a strong lung irritant, even in minute quantities. It is fatal in concentrations as low as 50 parts per million.

Carbonyl chloride is used as a building block in insecticides, plastics, resins and other products when it is combined with other substances.

Gov. William Milliken said Tuesday the state Department of Natural Resources is undertaking a national and international search to locate a chemical firm willing to buy the gas.

"They are optimistic that a transfer can be made soon," he said. "While phosgene is an extremely toxic substance that can be fatal if breathed, I am assured that adequate precautions have been taken to assure its safekeeping."

He added that the containers in which the chemical is stored must be inspected only once every two years and that they were approved a year ago.

Milliken said that if the state can't find a buyer for the chemical, a backup plan to destroy it will be used.

However, the state wants to find a buyer because destroying the chemical is a longer, more involved process. It also would cost the state about $50,000.

State and local officials officials inspected the property last week. In addition to the phosgene problem, authorities also discovered that chemical wastes stored in barrels and sludge pits had contaminated groundwater in the area, causing the closing of wells that supply eight homes.

Trained personnel from Story will remain at the site around the clock until Sept. 9 to insure proper maintenance of the equipment containing phosgene, state officials said.

Four-Cylinder Engines Popular

DETROIT (AP) — More than 80 per cent of the people buying imported cars in the first half of this year chose four-cylinder engines while five-speed transmissions creep up in popularity and automatics lose ground.

The four-cylinder engines were in 80.1 per cent of the cars sold from January through June. That topped the number sold in all of 1976 or 1975, according to the trade journal Ward's Automotive Reports.

Four-speed transmissions were the most popular during 1977 with 51.7 per cent of the market, down from 55.5 per cent in 1976 and 62.1 per cent in 1975.

Five-speeds won 21.5 per cent of the buyers, up from 16.9 per cent in all of last year and 9.9 per cent in 1975.

Automatics held 28.8 per cent of the market, down just over a point than its shares in both of the last two years.

The figures are based on imported car sales in the United States excluding truck sales and Datsun and Toyota sales in Hawaii.

More than half of all imports sold in the first half of this year had four-cylinder engines of 1.6 liters (96 cubic inches) or less. Among domestic car models, only the Chevrolet 1.8 litre and Chevrolet 1.4 litre qualify for that category.

The diesel engine, which had 1.4 per cent of the engine market in all of 1975 and 1976, gained slightly early this year with 1.8 per cent of all sales.

The rotary engine dropped in popularity from 3.7 per cent in 1975 to one-half per cent in the first half of this year, Ward's reported.

Embezzlement Suspect Held

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A suspect in Michigan embezzlement and fraud case has been arrested at Lambert St. Louis International Airport. Police arrested Shawn Kevin Haskins, 20, of Lansing, Mich., after he was seen sleeping in a car at the airport Sunday. A routine police check revealed he had been indicted by a federal grand jury in Michigan Aug. 11. The FBI said Haskins was charged in connection with the embezzlement of $17,500 from the Michigan National Bank in Lansing.

Carter Fighting Cities' Decline

By JONATHAN WOLMAN
AP Urban Affairs Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, under growing pressure from black leaders and the urban lobby, is directing his domestic policy advisers to finish work early next year on a comprehensive strategy to slow down the decline of American cities.

Carter was "more than a little affected," by the ghetto looting in New York City during last month's blackout, according to one source.

He directed chief domestic adviser Stuart Eizenstat to take a personal hand in the work of a Cabinet-level task force known as "the urban and regional development group." The group is developing the cities policy.

Patricia Harris, secretary of Housing and Urban Development, heads the task force. She and Eizenstat planned to meet today with leaders of the National League of Cities to discuss the urban strategy.

A HUD official said the strategy may be completed for inclusion in the State of the Union address Carter will deliver in January.

The President is being pushed hard for a strong program to aid the cities by moderate black leaders such as Vernon Jordan of the Urban League and Benjamin Hooks of the NAACP. On Tuesday, the AFL-CIO and the U.S. Conference of Mayors weighed in to support the black leaders.

Rather than creating broad social programs, sources said the Carter approach will stress the government's role in spurring private economic development in troubled cities, probably through a combination of tax incentives and investment aid.

Treasury Department officials are expected to propose a domestic development bank that would provide low-interest loans to companies doing business in the struggling cities. Carter has said he would consider such a proposal that "leverages" the government's resources, using it as front money to attract heavy investment by the private sector.

Congress is considering Carter's $400 million proposal for "urban action grants" that would provide HUD money to fund economic development in hardship cities.

And Commerce Secretary Junita Kreps has indicated she will lobby Carter to triple the $320-million Economic Development Administration budget.

TALENT SCOUT PAM DIXON
She's ABC's Top Talent Scout

Network Hunts Budding Actors

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pam Dixon bears a faint resemblance to Kate Jackson, one of Charlie's most attractive Angels. But she's not an actress. She looks instead for people who can act.

At 29, she's ABC's top talent scout, holds vice-presidential rank. She scouts talent for shows ranging from TV flicks to series pilots, the latter being a big part of her workload these days.

Miss Dixon, who has signed such knowns as Cloris "Phyllis" Leachman and such unknowns as Rebecca Reynolds for potential series, estimates she interviews eight thespians a day for ABC.

By night, she and her five-member staff are still scouting in little theaters or talent showcases like the Comedy Store, Catch a Rising Star and the Improvisation here and on the East Coast.

She laughed when asked if she's ever ambushed by mendicants who leap from the bushes crying, "Alas, poor Yorick, how'd I do?"

"Yes, you do get a few of those," she allowed. "But I've never found anyone that way. I think most people who are serious about acting really do take the time to do it legitimately."

The legit way, she says, is through an agent or by simply mailing a photo, a resume and writing for an interview.

While scuffling actors may feel the sun will rise in the West before ABC guards let them plead their case to the busy Miss Dixon or her associates, she says such isn't true at her emporium.

"We've a policy that we'll see not only anyone sent by an agent, but also anyone who takes the time to send a picture and resume," she says. "We've always had that open-door policy and will continue it...."

"If I find them interesting or if their background shows they've really tried, really studied, we'll let them come in and do a three-minute acting scene."

Now the bad news: She's never signed what she calls an "off-the-street" actor for a series pilot on the basis of said scene.

But at least it's a foot in the door, says the lady who put her own foot in TV's door in 1968, as secretary to the head of casting at CBS here. She later became CBS' casting director here.

Odd as it sounds, Miss Dixon, a native of Santa Monica, Calif., and a USC graduate, says it's getting harder these days to find good young talent for the tube.

This, she says "is for the simple reason that regional theater, due to economics, is becoming a thing of the past," and those who learned the acting craft there in olden days are growing fewer in number.

Veteran Navy Airman Eyes Higher Calling

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Navy Lt. Jim Bauer is leaving one set of angels in get closer to another.

Bauer, a combat veteran who now handles nonflying administrative duties with the Blue Angels flight team here, has resigned his commission to join the clergy.

He'll enter the Josephinum School of Theology in Worthington, Ohio, next month. He hopes eventually to be ordained a Roman Catholic priest in the Diocese of Springfield-Cape Girardeau, Mo., his home area. The 30-year-old officer says he finds no conflict between roles as warrior and priest.

LT. JIM BAUER
See No Conflict

"It really wasn't a problem," Bauer said. "I joined the Navy of my own free will — I knew what I was getting into. I incurred the obligation to carry out my orders to the utmost of my ability and I'm still operating under that same commissioning oath I took several years ago."

Bauer has been in the Navy for eight years. His father was a Navy radarman in World War II, and since high school Bauer had wanted a naval career.

Then as a student at Southwest Missouri State University he began to feel "just an idea" about higher service.

It became a compelling drive. He said he made the decision to change about a year ago.

During the waning months of the Vietnam war, Bauer served in combat as a flight officer aboard F4 Phantom jets. The flight officer handles navigational and other duties while the pilot does the actual flying.

Bauer said his decision to enter a five-year seminary program doesn't require any judgment of: "Is the military right or wrong?"

"After ordination," he said, "I might possibly re-enter the Navy."

Gov't Agencies Often Pay Late

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Time may be running out for the deadbeats among federal agencies — the ones that have a habit of paying their bills weeks or even months late.

The administration has told agencies that contract with private businesses to turn in reports by Sept. 1 on how many are paid when due, and how many are tardy.

If past performance is any guide, a good many of them will have to confess to paying bills belatedly.

Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., who raised the issue in the first place, said he may propose legislation to require that government agencies pay interest on any bills that are not paid within 30 days.

That's the way it is for the consumer who doesn't come up with the cash to pay his bills on time. But some of the government's 29 contracting agencies apparently have been making their own rules, and there hasn't been much that a businessman could do about it.

Packwood raised the possibility of a bill-collecting bill after the General Accounting Office reported that late payments are a serious problem for businesses that take government contracts.

According to the GAO survey, the General Services Administration was late in paying 73 per cent of its bills, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare was tardy with 68 per cent of its payments and the Department of Transportation with 64 per cent.

Packwood said if he were in business, he wouldn't deal with outfits that had that kind of record. It's one that would give the average citizen some trouble with his credit rating.

The National Education Association is launching a letterwriting and lobbying campaign for fulfillment of what apparently was one of President Carter's low priority campaign commitments: the creation of a new Department of Education.

Carter has had the Department of Energy added to the Cabinet roster, but there is no indication that the administration is considering another for education.

The education association is distributing a series of statements in which candidate Carter said that he favored a separate, Cabinet-level Department of Education.

There is a bill, cosponsored by half the members of the Senate, to set up such a department, but it is not likely to get anywhere unless the administration advocates the move.

Not Every Day Is Exciting In Texas Rangers

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — To Tom Arnold, the job is more routine than risk, less dangerous than dull. Lots of paperwork and legwork.

"Some days are a little busier than others," he shrugged, his stylish Western suitcoat slipping open to reveal the pistol strapped to his hip. "And then some days are a little slower."

"Despite what some may think, this job is not running gun battles, jumping out of speeding cars, leaping tall buildings. Most of it is dull, routine criminal investigation."

It's not that Arnold, 41, dislikes his job, for he is quietly proud to be a Texas Ranger. He just doesn't like talking about it. "Why me?" he fretted. "Our duties are no different than any state criminal investigative body. And I sure as hell don't want the publicity."

"How," he is asked, "would you characterize this job? Exciting? Boring? Dangerous? Dull? Challenging? Routine?"

"You're right so far," he grinned. Within a three-day span, Arnold, a lean, rugged figure, will: —Type out a report on Texas' end of a customs investigation for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

—Assist a Dallas detective in locating and interviewing a suspect in a burglary and assault case.

—Accompany a detective to the scene of an apartment shooting, a domestic rift in which no one is injured.

—Assist a Fort Worth detective in interrogating a suspect and conducting a polygraph test in connection with a kidnap-extortion case.

—Wade through a small mountain of reports, correspondence and routine paper work.

Officially organized as the Texas Ranger Force in October 1835, on the eve of Texas' war for independence from Mexico, the Rangers actually date to 1823. It was Stephen F. Austin, while colonizing what is now Texas, who paid 10 men to "range" over wide areas and protect settlers from marauding Indians and Mexicans.

"The history of Texas and the history of the Rangers run neck and neck," Arnold explained. "When there was no longer a need for Indian and Mexican fighters, there was a need for lawmen."

In 1935, when the Texas Department of Public Safety was created, the Rangers emerged as the nucleus of the DPS crime-fighting force, the role they now fill.

The Rangers today consist of a 84-member, six-company unit operating under the command of Col. Wilson Speir, the public safety director in Austin. Six captains heading regional offices in Dallas, Houston, Corpus Christi, San Antonio, Midland and Lubbock report to Senior Capt. Bill Wilson, also in Austin.

Arnold joined the DPS in 1957 as a highway patrolman in the Tyler-Longview area, spent two years in the safety education service, served a year in intelligence and joined the Rangers in 1969.

For appointment as a Ranger, an applicant must meet basic DPS requirements, be between 30 and 50 and have at least eight years of law enforcement experience.

Despite special training and schooling and jurisdiction to roam the state, Rangers neither "head" nor "take over" an investigation.

"We primarily work with local agencies in an assistance capacity," Arnold said. Rangers often enter an investigation only at the request of local police, the sheriff's office or the district attorney.

Responsibilities range from protection of life and property and suppression of riots and insurrections to apprehension of fugitives and investigations of major crimes.

Eclipse Cruise Set In October

NEW YORK (AP) — An estimated 1,200 to 1,600 astronomy buffs have plans to be sailing aboard two luxury cruise ships in the Pacific Ocean 1,200 miles southwest of Los Angeles on Oct. 12. They will be angling for a look at the dazzling spectacle of a total eclipse of the sun, and making their cruise an educational one at the same time. "Science at sea" lectures are organized for both ships, and attendance will earn the students three academic credits in astronomy from the University of California at Los Angeles extension.

The eclipse, only partly visible in the United States, will be visible in a path across the Pacific Ocean, west of Mexico, reaching the coast of Colombia shortly before sunset.

The next total eclipse visible from the United States will sweep across the Northwest on Feb. 26, 1979.

Pre-Natal Epileptic Link

CHICAGO (AP) — Pregnant women with a deficiency of the mineral manganese may give birth to epileptic children, says a researcher from Canada. Dr. Yukio Tanaka of St. Mary's Hospital in Montreal said Monday that his studies provide the first positive link between manganese deficiency and convulsions in humans. Tanaka presented his findings to the national meeting of the American Chemical Society.

He said preliminary studies show that in some cases where a shortage of manganese is the cause of epilepsy, the condition may be relieved by a dietary supplement of the trace metal. Manganese is among several minerals needed in small amounts by human beings. "We do not claim at this time that we found the cause of or cure for epilepsy," Tanaka said. "However, we believe that we have opened a whole new field of inquiry into the convulsive disorders, and that we have a very good chance to be able to help at least some epilepsy patients." About 2 million persons suffer from the disease in this country.

FDA: Penicillin Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration, calling for a ban on routine use of penicillin in animal feeds, says it wants to counter a risk of bacteria in animals gradually developing resistance to the antibiotic. The FDA proposed the ban on Monday and said the resistance can be transferred to bacteria in people. In such cases, penicillin and related antibiotics used as treatments would be less effective, the FDA said.

Small amounts of penicillin have been added to animal feeds for more than 20 years to help animals gain weight and to prevent disease. The FDA said the proposed action affects mainly feed for chickens, turkeys and swine. An estimated 10 per cent of the nation's chickens and turkeys and 35 per cent of swine are raised on penicillin-treated feed. Even with the proposal, penicillin would remain available to treat disease outbreaks in animals.

It Takes More Than Fear

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pleased with their initial results, officials in Houston have expanded a junior high school anti-smoking campaign that concentrates on emphasizing the immediate health hazard from tobacco. "Fear is not enough," Richard L. Evans said Monday at the 86th annual meeting of the American Psychological Association. "For years kids have been getting messages saying, 'When you get old you'll get cancer or emphysema.' But at this age they are living in a present-time perspective," said the University of Houston psychologist.

Evans said that the original 10-week experiment involved about 730 junior high school students. Between 8.6 per cent and 10.3 per cent of the members of student groups which were subjected to the anti-smoking campaign had taken up smoking at the end of the period. But 18.3 per cent of a group of students not shown the anti-smoking propaganda had taken up smoking at the end of 10 weeks. Evans said the expanded anti-smoking campaign is being directed at about 10,000 students.

Viral Research Precautions

ATLANTA (AP) — The national Center for Disease Control has ordered stricter safety precautions for viral research after the infection of a technician in New York and the deaths of two workers in Atlanta earlier this year. The new rules were prompted by the deaths in March of two CDC workers who contracted Rocky Mountain spotted fever, a spokesman said. The two men may have caught the disease in a room where the spotted fever organisms escaped into the air in an aerosol, a gaseous suspension of fine particles, CDC officials said.

The rules also resulted from the infection of a laboratory technician in Albany, N.Y., with rubies in April, officials said. The technician for the New York State Health Department has been hospitalized since April 20, and doctors say he probably will survive. The man had been immunized against rubies and was thought to be protected against the disease.

GALLUP Youth Survey

By GEORGE GALLUP
PRINCETON, N.J. — America's teen-agers spend a lot of time and money on movies and, surprisingly, a great many of these young people deplore sex and violence in films.

The latest Gallup Youth Survey found that four in 10 teenage movie-goers, or 42 per cent, believe that there is too much violence on the screen, and a similar proportion — 41 per cent — feel there is too much sex in today's movies.

Girls are considerably more inclined than boys to deplore violence and sex in movies and, interestingly, older teens (16-18) hold views similar to younger teen-agers (13-15).

The questions and findings: "Do you feel that there is too much violence (too much sex) in movies, or not?"

TOO MUCH VIOLENCE IN MOVIES?

	Yes	No	Opinion
NATIONAL	42%	54%	4%
Boys	35	61	4
Girls	49	47	4

TOO MUCH SEX IN MOVIES?

	Yes	No	Opinion
NATIONAL	44%	54%	4%
Boys	32	62	4
Girls	54	43	3

America's teen-agers spend a large part of their lives watching movies, judging by Gallup Youth Survey movie attendance figures. In fact, three in 10 teens see as many as three or more movies per month. Seven in 10 (71 per cent) go at least once.

Girls attend movies slightly more frequently than do boys while older teen-agers are more likely to be frequent attendees than are younger teens.

Here is the question and national results for teen-agers:

"About how many times did you go out to the movies during the last 30 days?"

HOW MANY TIMES GO OUT TO MOVIES IN LAST 30 DAYS?

Five times or more	11%
Three or four times	19
One or two times	41
Did not attend in last 30 days	71%
TOTAL	100%

Actually, movie attendance figures for teen-agers would be still higher if the price of admission were more to their liking. The current survey finds 53 per cent of teen-agers saying the price of admission to a movie keeps them from attending more often.

The runaway first choice of both boys and girls for the best movie they had seen so far during 1977 is the movie "Rocky." As many as one boy in five and one girl in four pick this film, which propelled Sylvester Stallone to stardom.

The second biggest vote-getter is "A Star is Born," primarily because of the heavy vote from girls.

Here is the question asked: Since the beginning of the year, which of the movies you saw in a theater were your

TOP 10 MOVIE FAVORITES IN 1977 (Choices of Teen-Agers Nationwide)

2. A Star is Born (R)

3. The Deep (PG)

4. Star Wars (PG)

5. Jaws (PG)

6. Smokey and the Bandit (PG)

7. Silver Streak (PG)

8. For the Love of Benji (G)

9. King Kong (PG)

10. Young Frankenstein (PG)

The vast majority of America teens, 7 in 10, say they have attended an R-rated movie, while as many as one in six have attended at least one X-rated movie.

R-rated movies are those which can be attended by persons under 17 only if accompanied by a parent or guardian. Theaters showing X-rated films will not, at least in theory, admit anyone under 17.

The survey shows 71 per cent of teen-agers have attended an R-rated film, with equal proportions of boys and girls having seen a movie with this rating.

One teen-ager in six (16 per cent) has seen an X-rated movie, with 19 per cent of boys and 14 per cent of girls having done so.

While older teen-agers are more likely to have seen a movie with this rating, as many as five per cent of younger boys (13-15 years) and nine per cent of younger teen-agers girls have done so.

Here are the questions and results:

Yanks In Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — American diplomats are in Cuba to set up shop for the first time since relations were broken between the two nations 16 years ago.

The arrival of Lyle Lane, 51, the career diplomat assigned by President Carter to head the new "U.S. Interest Section" was low-key Tuesday in keeping with the limited upgrading of Washington-Havana relations.

The survey results were based on a representative sample of 1,035 teen-agers from across the nation, interviewed by telephone during the period June 22 to July 6.

Ask Your Dentist

By ALFRED E. SEYLER
D.D.S.

Q. My sister's baby was born with a cleft lip and palate. When I was young it was always easy to tell when a person had such an affliction, but I understand some new ideas have been brought out by scientists that can help such a person. Is this right? M.J.K.

A. There are many studies going on about cleft palate and cleft lip. The national Institute of Dental Research probably is the leading agency in the field. Each year in the United States and Canada one out of every 750 babies born will have a cleft lip, a cleft palate or both.

A cleft is one of the most common birth defects. It is caused when the parts of the head that form the roof of the mouth or the upper lip do not meet and grow together as in normal. Dental problems occur because the teeth are farmed out of their proper position or may be missing altogether.

Breathing, chewing and swallowing are difficult for the infant with a cleft palate. In the child of speaking age, speech is usually very poor.

Some surgeons operate on the newborn baby, while others wait until the child is older. Dental and medical specialists work as a team, and it is the parents and relatives are determined to help the child, much can be done to make speech almost normal. After the cleft palate has been closed, or a denture-like appliance has been made for the child, a speech therapist can teach the child and the parents home speech training so that by the time the youngster enters school he can speak almost as well as other children.

Years ago there were many superstitions about cleft palates, some of them cruelly blaming one or both of the parents for the condition, making them feel guilty about the situation. There really isn't any scientific basis for such guilt, because even a definite inheritance pattern has been difficult to prove, and even though we know that in 20 to 30 percent of cleft-palate children, there is some family history of clefts.

Decentralization Of ACTION Is 'Going Smoothly'

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some days, Sam Brown finds himself sounding like a Republican, which he definitely is not.

That bit of irony is part of the story of two government managers, running the same agency in successive administrations, and pursuing what sounds like a common goal: the decentralization of federal authority.

"When it's at its best our program grows out of the community," said Brown, the activist Democrat who runs ACTION, the federal volunteer services agency.

He said his effort to move power in that direction is going smoothly, without bureaucratic resistance. That is in marked contrast to the account of Michael P. Balzano, who headed ACTION during the Republican administration and says he encountered roadblocks at almost every step of his reorganization effort.

Balzano has published an account of his frustrations, suggesting that they point to some of the problems President Carter will face as he tries to overhaul the federal bureaucracy.

"He will probably encounter most of the roadblocks that we did," Balzano said in a paper issued by the American Enterprise Institute, a Washington study group.

He said those barriers included resistance in Congress and in the bureaucracy, with employee opposition ranging from foot-dragging to legal action against reorganization steps such as threatening the power or position of federal workers.

"Mergers and consolidations imply the possibility of changes in grades, salaries and duty stations," Balzano wrote. "Understandably, this possibility gives rise to fears and opposition, which could become the President's greatest obstacle."

Carter moved to head off that prospect soon after taking office, promising federal workers that no one will be dismissed or demoted because of reorganization.

But Balzano questioned whether there can be a meaningful reorganization of the bureaucracy in which no one loses rank.

He headed ACTION, the $200-million agency that includes the Peace Corps, VISTA and other volunteer activities, for four years, until the Democrats took over the White House.

He said he found the agency in dire need of an overhaul. Balzano said it took ACTION an average of 148 days to process a Peace Corps application, 102 days for a VISTA volunteer. By the time the paperwork was done, he said, the program that had sought volunteer help in the first place had sometimes been canceled.

Furthermore, he said, ACTION's volunteer programs in the United States were dominated almost totally by Washington. "In many cases, those who had the most say about the style and substance of a program activity in a given community had never seen that community," Balzano wrote.

But Balzano said he ran into a sort of bureaucratic guerrilla war against efforts to disperse that power — which would in turn have diminished the grade, and thus the salary levels, of some positions in Washington.

Brown said he has encountered no such thing in his efforts to bring change to ACTION. And he is no less committed to the dispersal of power, suggesting at one point that what is needed is a sort of progressive federalism.

"I find myself sounding like a Republican sometimes," he said in an interview.

Brown said agency employees are cooperating with his program. He said he thinks the difference is that many of them suspected the Republicans wanted to keep the agency docile, quiet and under political control.

Balzano denied that he was set in to dismantle or downgrade the agency, but acknowledged that many of his personnel feared that was the case.

Pollution Pacts In Jeopardy

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The federal government is moving to block pollution settlements engineered by the state of Michigan that call for fines of nearly $3 million against two major industrial firms.

The settlement, touted by state officials as the toughest ever in Michigan, is "inadequate" punishment for years of discharges into state waterways, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency said Tuesday.

The EPA warned that unless the state toughens its terms against Ford Motor Co. and the Great Lakes Division of National Steel, it will begin enforcement action of its own.

The federal agency issued an official notice of violation. Now the matter appears headed for court — which could put the state in the awkward position of defending two industrial polluters.

State Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley and Natural Resources boss

Howard Tanner have vowed to stand behind the settlements, which were reached out of court and ratified by the state Water Resources Commission.

The fines, agreed upon orally by the two firms, are $1.6 million against Ford and $1.25 million against Great Lakes Steel. They would be the two biggest such fines in the state's history.

The fines were levied for failure to meet a July 1 federal deadline for installing the best available anti-pollution equipment at six Ford and Great Lakes Steel facilities in the Detroit area.

EPA Regional compliance chief William Constantinos said Tuesday the agency finds the fines inadequate because the companies saved more money than that by delaying the costly equipment installations.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Stewart Freeman, who negotiated the settlements, called the EPA action an effort to "undermine and undercut" the state's anti-pollution program.

"It was a total lack of judgment," Freeman said. He said federal intervention before the agreement was signed by Ford and Great Lakes Steel could threaten a sound settlement and delay further the cleanup of state waters.

Quebec Leads Canada In Slumping Tourist Trade

By RICHARD GARLICK
Canadian Press Writer

MONTREAL (AP) — Tourism is reported down in most parts of Canada this summer, according to preliminary surveys, but the slump seems particularly bad in Quebec, the predominantly French-speaking province with a government that wants to succeed. Tourism industry spokesmen blame Quebec's tourist decline on the province's image as a potential "trouble spot," its heavy taxes, high labor costs and cold, wet weather.

Laventhol and Horvath, a Toronto-based firm of management consultants specializing in the hotel business, reports that occupancy rates in Quebec hotels are the lowest in Canada, with the exception of Nova Scotia. Revenue from room rentals, meals and beverages in Montreal and Quebec City is increasing at a slower rate than in other major Canadian cities, but even this growth is more than offset by the inflation rate.

"And we haven't bottomed out yet," said Reg Groome, general manager of the Queen Elizabeth Hotel, in a recent interview. He added that most hotels are experiencing 15 to 30 per cent less business than last year. Groome, who is also president of Hilton Canada Ltd., said a "horrendous" number of United States conventions have been canceled this year because of new U.S. tax legislation limiting the number of tax-free conventions Americans can attend outside their country.

The sag in the tourist industry is largely a reflection of a sluggish Canadian economy, Groome said, but he emphasized there are many problems that are peculiar to Quebec. The province's 10 per cent food and beverage tax is the highest in North America, he noted, and the 8 per cent room tax is one of the highest.

Hotels in Montreal and Quebec City also pay a business real estate tax that far exceeds the North American average, he added. At $3.15 an hour, the province's minimum wage is the highest in North America and drives up labor costs, Groome continued.

Finally, he said, there is a feeling among tourists that it "may not be the wisest thing" to come to Quebec while the province is in the throes of political and social unrest. "There is an impression that English-speaking people are not welcome here," he said. John Fisher, a former head of the Canadian Tourist Association, has blamed "stupid anti-Americanism" for driving U.S. tourists away from Canada and said Quebec in particular is not regarded as highly as it once was as a tourist destination.

He said a special campaign advising tourists to "come to Quebec and see for yourself" might help dispel negative feelings about the province. The Quebec Tourism Department launched such a campaign this year.

But Richard Pouliot, Quebec assistant deputy minister of tourism, said no advertising campaign will change the "bad over-all perception" that he claims outsiders have been given of Quebec through the media.

He agreed that industry costs are prohibitive, but said the province's 10 per cent meal tax was not a major element in discouraging tourism. Families may find restaurants too expensive, but "there are always snack bars," he said.

Weather has been an important factor this summer, he added. Quebec has had an unusual amount of cold, rainy weather since the beginning of June. Pouliot said no figures were available for the number of tourists visiting Quebec this summer and Statistics Canada, a federal agency, had only the number of outsiders that have visited Canada during the first three months of 1977. Despite advertising efforts aimed at getting Quebecers to stay home, many still prefer places like Ogunquit, Maine, where Quebec Premier Rene Levesque recently spent several days. Although exact figures were impossible to obtain, Pouliot said more Quebecers every year seem to be heading to the United States for their vacations. Once-popular vacation spots such as the Gaspé region are not doing as well as in the past, Pouliot said, blaming the area's "really high" prices for meals and accommodations. The Laurentian Mountains, another popular resort area north of Montreal, are also suffering this year and Pouliot said his department is still trying to find out why. Fred Draper, a spokesman for Canadian Pacific Hotels, blamed the Quebec government and the tourist industry in general for not selling Quebec as a tourist attraction. He said there had been "quite a large drop" in the occupancy rate at the Chateau Champlain Hotel in Montreal. The hotel usually fills 80 per cent of its rooms, but now the occupancy rate is "running in the 60s."

Kravec, Sox Win; KC Leads By Two

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ken Kravec came within one out of his first major league shutout Tuesday night.

But it was enough to bring the Chicago White Sox to within two games of first-place Kansas City. Kravec gave up just six hits in 8-2/3 innings in pitching the White Sox past Cleveland 3-1.

Kravec, 8-6, ended a personal four-game losing streak with his first victory since July 23. The 26-year-old's shutout bid was ruined when Rico Larty greeted reliever Lerrin LaGrow with a run-scoring single.

While the White Sox were winning, Kansas City was dumped 8-2 by Texas. That left Kansas City two games ahead of both the White Sox and Minnesota. Texas is 2 1/2 games back.

The White Sox scored all their runs in the third inning off Wayne Garland, 10-16. Don Kessinger walked with one out and went to third on a single by Brian Downing, with Downing taking second on the throw. Ralph Garr was safe on an infield hit, loading the bases.

Shortstop Frank Duffy, who made three errors in the game, bobbled Chet Lemon's grounder, with Kessinger scoring, and after a strikeout, Lamar Johnson singled home the two decisive runs.

The outcome snapped Cleveland's three-game winning streak. The White Sox, who are idle until Friday, had lost two straight.

Willie Horton drove in three runs with a sacrifice fly, double and his 12th homer of the season in Texas' victory. Seven of Horton's homers have come against the Royals.

Meanwhile, Bert Campaneris delivered four hits, including the 2,000th of his career on a first inning punt. Toby Harrah also homered and Gaylord Perry checked Kansas City on four hits.

In the American League East, the New York Yankees edged the Seattle Mariners 6-5 in 11 innings to remain three games ahead of the Boston Red Sox, who trounced the Oakland A's 7-2, and four in front of the Baltimore Orioles, who blasted the California Angels 8-2.

Mickey Rivers homered off Diego Segui on the first pitch in the bottom of the 11th to give the Yankees their 20th victory in the last 23 games.

Fred Lynn drove in three runs, two with his 15th homer. Rick Burleson drove in a pair and Denny Doyle had a perfect night with two singles and two doubles as the Red Sox ended Oakland's longest winning streak of the season at six games.

Eddie Murray's two-run single snapped a 2-2 tie, capping Baltimore's four-run sixth-inning rally, and Jim Palmer scattered seven hits for only his second victory since July 31.

Reuschel Wins 19th As Cubs Topple LA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rick Reuschel, with ninth-inning relief help from Bruce Sutter, became the major leagues' first 18-game winner Tuesday night by pitching the Chicago Cubs to a 4-1 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Gene Clines drove in two of the Cubs' runs and Jose Cardenal collected three hits as Doug Rau, 13-5, took the loss.

Los Angeles scored its only run in the third when Bill Russell's bloop double with two out tallied Dave Lopes from first. After that, Reuschel did not permit another hit until Lopes singled with one out in the eighth.

Chicago tied the game in the fourth on Clines' run-scoring single. The Cubs broke the tie in the sixth, scoring twice on sacrifice flies by Clines and Steve Ontiveros after loading the bases with none out.

The Cubs added their final run in the eighth.

Reuschel, 19-5, walked two and struck out four in posting his fourth straight win. Sutter was credited with his 26th save of the season.

Rozema 'Junks' Brewers Non-Fastball Still Drawing Sneers

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Brewers are still sneering at Dave Rozema's non-fastball, but they have yet to hit it with much consistency.

Rozema (15-5), whose superb control and tantalizing slow pitches have made him one of the top rookies in the American League, earned his fourth complete game victory in as many starts against the Brewers this season Tuesday night. Aurelio Rodriguez' two run second inning homer was the decisive margin as the Detroit Tigers won 4-2, Rozema's eighth victory in his last nine decisions.

Rozema, whose other victories over the Brewers were by scores of 6-2, 9-1 and 4-2, was tagged for nine hits and several long drives that were caught this time. However, he continually stayed ahead of hitters and issued no walks. He has walked only 31 batters in 204 1/3 innings.

Early in the season, Brewer Manager Alex Grammas was quoted as having said Rozema has "a batting practice fast ball." Grammas denied having said that, but several of his players wouldn't argue the description.

"He throws junk," first baseman Cecil Cooper said. "But it's hard to hit because you don't see that kind of junk very often. He threw me one pitch tonight that I couldn't even tell what it was. I think he just grabs the ball with five fingers and throws it."

"But that's not to say he's not a good pitcher," Cooper said. "He gets you to swing at what he wants you to swing at. He's tantalizing. Pitchers don't get hitters out so much as hitters get themselves out. With him, you've got to be patient and wait on the ball. But, heck, I used a heavier bat tonight, 37 ounces, and I still too out in front." "He's got to be doing something right," outfielder Von Joshua said. "His ball sinks and he throws everything down. But I think next year he'll have problems. I don't say he's going to fall on his face — not with control like that — but I think the hitters will start to adjust, to wait on him more."

Several Tiger players broke into laughter and needed Rozema when the 21-year-old right-hander was told of the disparaging comments.

"I really don't care what they say about my fastball," Rozema said, almost in exasperation. "I've got what I've got. I just use what God gave me. And thank God I've got some other pitches. If I really heated it up and threw harder, I'd sacrifice control. I'd get in trouble that way."

"Everybody says I'm so slow," he said. "I don't think I am. I used to blow 'em down in Grand Rapids, Mich. Fourteen K's a game."

The Tigers took the lead to stay on Ron LeFlore hit loser Mike Caldwell's first pitch for a triple and scored on Tito Fuentes' infield out.

They scored again in the first inning on a single by Rusty Staub, a double by Steve Kemp and a sacrifice fly by Jason Thompson.

Rodriguez, batting .194 before the game, hit his ninth homer after a single by Milt May in the second as the Tigers made it 4-0.

The Brewers scored twice in their half of the second on a double by Sal Bando, a single by Ed Kirkpatrick and an error on the play by LeFlore in center, a single by Robin Yount and an infield out by Charlie Moore.

Yount had three hits, one a drive off the right centerfield wall with one out in the seventh. He beat the relay to third base, but instead of sliding overran the bag and was tagged out trying to get back. The hit was scored as a triple.

Kirkpatrick and Yount singled with two out in the ninth, but Mickey Stanley made a leaping catch of Moore's drive in front of the right field wall.

JIM KAAT
Winningest Active Pitcher

25th In All-Time Victories Relaxed Kaat Big Winner

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jim Kaat of the Philadelphia Phillies knows it takes more than endurance to win 253 games and pitch 4,001 innings.

"I threw relaxed. I got ahead of the hitters and had good stuff," he said Tuesday night. "And I also got a lot of runs."

Kaat scattered 10 hits in raising his season record to 6-7 and tying Carl Hubbell for 25th place on the all-time list for career victories. He ranks 25th for number of innings pitched.

"Those are nice honors, but you can't lean on them," the 38-year-old left-hander said.

The Phillies backed Kaat with a 15-hit attack, crushing the Atlanta Braves 11-2 to retain their four-game lead in the NATIONAL League East race. The Phillies have won 21 of their last 27 games.

Jay Johnstone paced Philadelphia's assault with three hits, scoring three runs, while Garry Maddox added a three run homer.

In other NL games Tuesday, Cincinnati edged Montreal 4-3. Houston defeated New York 6-2. San Diego stopped St. Louis 7-4 and Pittsburgh downed San Francisco 3-1.

George Foster smashed his 44th home run of the season and drove in three runs, increasing his major league-leading RBI total to 128 and helping Cincinnati beat Montreal.

The Expos made it close in the bottom of the ninth inning when they scored two runs off reliever Pedro Borbon and had the tying run thrown out at the plate to end the game.

The Pirates equalled the NL season high by stealing six bases against San Francisco in support of a four-hitter by John Candelaria, 15-4. Phil Garner swiped three and Frank Taveras two as Pittsburgh recorded only its second victory against the Giants this year. Candelaria was the winning pitcher in the other game, too.

A two-run double by Enos Cabell sparked Houston's four-run outburst in the fifth inning as the Astros defeated New York behind Joe Niekro's 11-hitter. Niekro captured his fourth complete-game victory in four home starts this season and increased Houston's winning streak to six games.

George Hendrick and Jerry Turner combined for five hits and five runs batted in to lead San Diego over St. Louis. It was the Cardinals' sixth straight loss.

Rookie left-hander Bob Owchinko, 7-9, got the victory, his fourth straight over St. Louis this season, with relief help from Dan Spillner.

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) —

Three years ago, over a two-hour dinner at Christie's restaurant here, America's Cup skipper Ted Turner and boat designer Britton Chance Jr. were discussing the relative merits of the 12-meter yacht Mariner.

"Britt, why can't this boat go?" asked Turner.

"There's nothing wrong with the boat, Ted," Chance replied. "Then Britt, why are there no square-tailed fishes in the sea?"

asked Turner.

Chance, who designed the pathetically slow Mariner with her chopped off stern, and Turner, who had the dubious honor of skipping her, were dining that night on crows.

Mariner was eliminated from the defense series in early August, and Courageous finally was picked to defend the Cup

Turner now is dining on a more palatable bird, the Bird of Paradise.

"I think seven or eight of the guys were with us with the ill-fated Mariner," Turner said of his 1977 crew. "And I think we have a lot to show. We wanted to come back and show not necessarily that we were the world's greatest, but that we weren't a bunch of hacks like we looked last time."

The New York Yacht Club's selection committee made the decision to eliminate Enterprise, the last of Turner's opposition, shortly after Courageous beat Enterprise by 1 minute, 26 seconds in the final defense series. Independence, Courageous' sister yacht in the Kings Point Syndicate, was eliminated Monday.

Australia won the right to make the 23rd challenge for the Cup by beating Sverige of Sweden by 13:19, one of the most lop-sided races in Cup history. It was an embarrassing end to what had been a reasonably competitive challenge by the Swedes, who never had been in the America's Cup.

Sverige got to the final by beating Gretel II, the 1970 Australian challenger, but she lost four straight to Australia in the best-of-seven series.

The challenge will be land developer Alan Bond's second straight. He heads the Australia syndicate.

"We're very happy," said Turner, 38, who won his fame not by sailing yachts, but by buying the Atlanta Braves baseball team in January, 1976, then being banned from baseball for a year by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn for tampering with outfielder Gary Matthews, then a member of the San Francisco Giants.

Bo Says Leach Won't Leave U-M For Baseball

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Despite the lure of big bonus bucks, Michigan coach Bo Schembechler doesn't think his star quarterback will hang up his shoulder pads for a professional baseball career after this football season.

"I would say at this time (Rick) Leach's plans are to finish his college career," Schembechler told a group of Big Ten writers Tuesday.

"I would say it would be difficult to buy him with money," Schembechler added of his junior signal caller.

Leach turned down a $100,000 bonus from the Philadelphia Phillies of the National League to play baseball after his graduation from high school in Flint.

Earlier in the day, Leach was among the Wolverine players at interview sessions with the writers' group.

Asked about the possibility of signing a baseball contract before his senior year, Leach said, "There could be an outside chance."

Leach, an outfielder, has been a standout for the Michigan baseball team and played in the tough Alaskan summer league this year, batting .360. He came home a week early from injuring his right shoulder catching a fly ball.

Leach is a left handed quarterback who has started every game since his freshman year, leading the Wolverines to an Orange Bowl appearance two years ago and a Rose Bowl game last season.

Leach's father, Richard, went to Michigan and played in the Detroit Tigers baseball system.

The younger Leach said he decided against playing with the Phillies after high school following a long talk with his father. Another factor was that he had already signed a tender to play at Michigan when he was drafted.

He will be eligible to be drafted again in the secondary phase in which major league teams select players who had previously been drafted but did not sign. They must be through their junior year in college or be 21.

"My father went to Michigan and I was pretty much brought up to go here," said Leach.

Although he has been allowed to play baseball, he said it "has been pretty tough around here sometimes in the spring when I play two sports."

Leach play sports. He wants him to concentrate on football, but baseball coach Moby Benedict wants him, too.

During the annual spring football scrimmage, Leach quarterbacked the Wolverines in the first half, then rushed off to play the outfield in a baseball doubleheader against Minnesota.

Coloma Grand Opening Launching Bowling Season

The Grand Opening of the new Coloma Lanes this week will help launch a new bowling season in southwestern Michigan.

Some leagues in the area have already started this week but the majority will make their debuts next week after Labor Day.

The Coloma Lanes Grand Opening will start Thursday and continue through Labor Day. League bowling at the new alleys will begin the day after Labor Day.

The Grand Opening will feature three lines of open bowling for a $1. There will be a 10 per cent discount on all bowling apparel and a "Name the Lounge" contest with a $25 gift certificate to the winner. There will also be a band performing in the lounge over the weekend as part of the Grand Opening.

The 23,000 square foot building contains 20 AMF automatic solid-state lanes with underneath ball returns. There is also a game room, pro shop and nursery.

The lounge will seat 150 people and there will be entertainment booked on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights after Labor Day.

The parking lot will hold about 225 cars.

The alley will be open seven days a week from 10 a.m. until closing. Open bowling will be 80 cents a line.

Ken Sulko, Robert Davis and Dr. Roger Corder are owners, with Davis also serving as manager. Davis had operated the eight-lane Coloma Recreation.

Davis reports 24 leagues have already signed up for the new season and youth bowling signups are now being taken.

Coloma Lanes is located three minutes off the Coloma exit of I-94 on Mountain road.

Most area houses report they will up the cost of bowling a nickel this season. However, Al Stockdale, owner of Wil-O-Paw Lanes in Coloma, says his league bowling rates will be lowered.

Wil-O-Paw has also remodeled its house with new seating and new tiling.

In another area change, Ken Bauske has been appointed new manager at Gersonde's. He replaces Jim Florian, who retired last month.

There are openings for teams and individuals at almost all area alleys. The best way for a man or woman who wants to bowl, but hasn't yet found a spot on a team, is to contact an area proprietor for information.

Many of the area houses are now also taking registrations for their junior bowling programs. Interested youngsters can get in touch with proprietors for information on where to sign up and when the leagues begin.

Both men and women keepers will have to produce some sterling efforts this season if they hope to better last year's top scores.

Don Gersy's all-time area record 788 was the leading series for them in last season. Mark Nemethy shot the high game of 287 while Mr. K's fired the high team series of 3134.

For the women, Ruth Williams forged the high series with 870. Lottie Rudley's 278 rated the high game and Big Boys' 2625 the best team series. Joan Haase led the women's 800 list with eight league 600's.

Last year there were a total of only two league sanctioned 700 series by the men, an all-time low. The women smashed a near-record 51 600 series.

U.S. Open Is Underway

'Hate Match' For Wade

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Virginia Wade has two women on her mind — Chris Evert and Renee Richards — not necessarily in that order.

For the next 12 days, Ms. Wade's goal is to dethrone Miss Evert as the women's singles titlist at the U.S. Open tennis championships, which began today at the West Side Tennis Club. To do that, she will have to beat Dr. Richards — and that is just fine with her.

Thursday's first-round pairing of Ms. Wade, the Wimbledon champion and No. 3 seed, and Dr. Richards, the 43-year-old transsexual who had to go to court to gain a spot in the women's draw, is taking on all the trappings of a "hate match." The participants have lashed at each other verbally over the past week, adding interest in the match which will be played on the main court in the famed horsehoe stadium.

When the draw was held and Ms. Wade was paired against Dr. Richards, the Wimbledon titleholder was reported to have snaped. "If she beats me, she ought to be checked out." To which Dr. Richards said, "Virginia has been against me from the start."

Ms. Wade tried to clarify her feelings on the eve of the tournament.

"I have nothing against Dr. Richards personally," she contended. "I think she has conducted herself well in this situation. I simply am not comfortable with the whole idea. I am not sure in my mind about the precedent we may be setting."

Dr. Richards, a leading New York ophthalmologist and ranking 35-and-over open's player as Richard Raskind, underwent a sex change operation two years ago. She had been barred from major women's events, but a court ruling earlier this month opened a spot for her in the U.S. Open field.

The Richards-Wade match has overshadowed just about all the other first-round pairings as the 128 men and 96 women began their chase for first prizes of $35,000 apiece from a total purse of $462,320.

Nine Offensive Starters Buoy Chiefs' Grid Hopes

DOWAGIAC — Russ Barnes is hoping to write a rags-to-riches story with his Dowagiac football team.

And the second-year coach may have what it takes to accomplish that goal.

Dowagiac finished with a painful 1-8 record a year ago, the worst in the school's history. But the Chieftains return nine offensive regulars and Barnes is counting on big things from the group.

"I know we're going to be better than we were last year," he says. "But I don't share the confidence of my fellow Blossomland coaches. They believe we're going to dominate the league."

"I feel that on any given Friday any team in this conference is capable of beating anyone else."

Heading the list of returnees are three key backfield performers. Southpaw quarterback Larry McLaughlin (5-10, 100) is back.

The slippery McLaughlin is backed up by junior Jeff Bates, giving Dowagiac what Barnes calls "the best one-two quarterbacking combo in the Blossomland."

Barnes says, "Jeff is a better open field runner than Larry, but both add a different dimension to our offense. If Larry needs a rest, I can put Jeff into the game and not lose anything."

Joining either signal caller in the backfield will be speedsters Dan Weinman (5-11, 175) and Craig Morrow (5-11, 170). Morrow runs the 100 in 10.2, while Weinman, healthy for the first time in four years, is close behind at 10.4.

Barnes has a pleasant problem at tight end with two regulars returning. Both Mark Cravens (6-1, 170) and Jim Waskies (6-1, 200) saw a great deal of playing time there last year and are running neck-and-neck for the starting slot this season.

Tackles Roger Behnke (6-1, 210) and Jeff Mullen (6-1, 190) are also back. Barnes calls Behnke Dowagiac's "best all-around blocker."

Kurt Cox (5-8, 109) returns at one guard slot with senior Jim Kurelmeyer (5-8, 150) and junior Bill Jewell (5-10, 155) battling for the other.

Senior Ken Osten (5-10, 170) returns at center, but is being pushed by senior Mike Nate (5-10, 200) for the starting spot.

"Offensively we feel pretty confident," Barnes says. "We believe we'll be able to move the ball. We have the potential of being one of Dowagiac's best offensive teams ever."

"Defensively it's a question mark. I feel we never really came together and played good defense last year. And we have just four returning defensive starters. You can't start a defense with that few. I feel we won't know about ourselves defensively until the second or third game."

Dowagiac will find out quickly about itself this season, hosting Detroit St. Martin dePorres and Coloma in its first two games. Barnes sees Coloma as the favorite in the Blossomland race this season.

Canham Against Cage Tourney

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The University of Michigan's athletic director says a Big Ten postseason basketball tournament would prove "absolutely nothing" and probably will be rejected by conference representatives.

Don Canham on Tuesday labeled as premature Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Dineen's weekend announcement that a post-season tourney is being considered.

"I cannot imagine that the Big Ten would add another tournament to the already heavy basketball commitments that each institution has," Canham said.

"Can you imagine what would happen, for instance, if Indiana, Ohio or Iowa won the Big Ten championship and then lost in the tournament?" Canham asked. "It doesn't seem to me that it would do anyone any good."

"If the goal is winning the Big Ten championship and then doing as well as you can in the NCAA (National Collegiate Athletic Association), a rest following the Big Ten season prior to the NCAA tournament is certainly more in order than beating each other's brains out in a postseason tournament prior to the start of the NCAA championship tournament."

Canham said he does not think conference faculty representatives would vote in favor of the tournament.

"There are three and possibly four Big Ten schools who absolutely could not compete in this tournament, and Michigan is one of them," Canham said.

"Our faculty is simply not interested in extending the season in football, basketball or any other sport at the present time, and I am quite certain that there are other Conference schools which are concerned about season extensions."

"It is obvious that if one or more Big Ten teams were not allowed to play in this tournament, the tournament simply could not fly."

Duke disclosed his proposal in a surprise announcement over the weekend. He suggested that the tournament begin in the 1979 season as a vehicle for selecting the Big Ten's representative in the NCAA. He said it would gross between $750,000 and $800,000.

Canham said he does not believe league officials could project how much revenue a postseason tournament would produce.

Even if it were to prove lucrative at the gate, Canham added, "I don't think many schools in the Big Ten are interested in establishing a fund raising program built around a basketball tournament that will prove absolutely nothing."

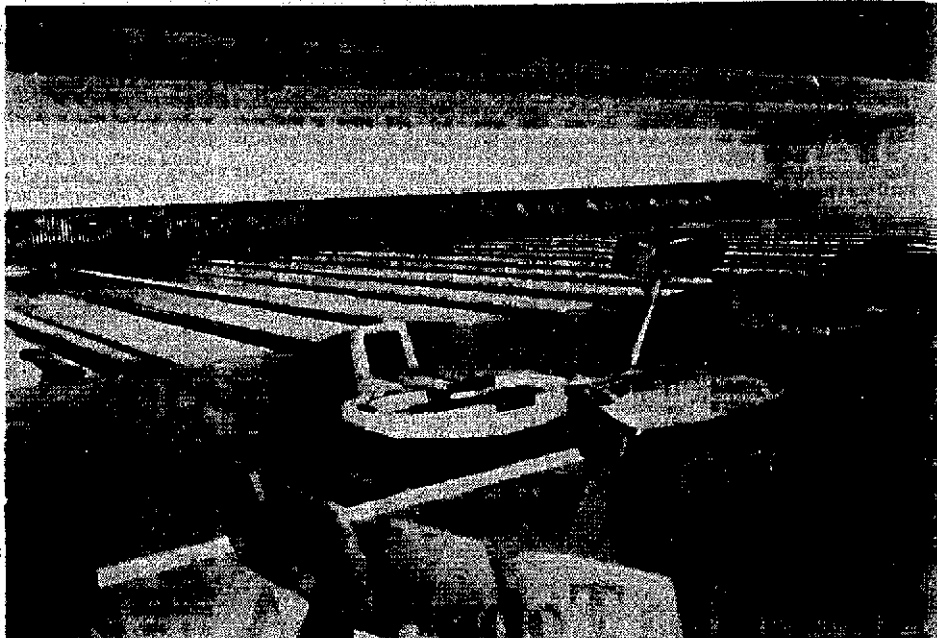

The Big Ten basketball season now has a round robin schedule in which each team faces all other league opponents twice. "I can not imagine our faculty representatives abandoning the concept of round robin scheduling," Canham said.

Under the Duke plan, there would be four first round sites with the first and second place teams in the Big Ten race getting byes into the semifinals.

Duke said the conference basketball coaches would vote on the idea in October, with faculty representatives and athletic directors casting their votes in December.

"There are some pros and cons," he said. "The haves would be opposed to it; the have nots will be for it. It gives them a second chance."

LOTS OF LANES: Newly-opened Coloma Lanes, first new bowling alley in north Berrien county in 25 years, features 20 AMF automatic solid-state lanes. The 23,000 square foot building, located off Mountain road, Coloma township, faces I-94. Business will be open seven days a week from 10 a.m. until closing. (Cliff Stevens photo)

BASEBALL
MILWAUKEE — Milwaukee Brewers' third baseman Sal Bando, recently ordered suspended for three games because of an incident in a game against Toronto July 30, had the suspension reduced to two games after a hearing. Bando will have to miss Wednesday's and Thursday's games against Detroit and will have to pay the $200 fine previously levied against him.

American League President Lee MacPhail originally imposed a three-day suspension on Bando when the player was accused of bumping umpire Darwood Merrill after being called out on strikes.

TENNIS
BROOKLINE, Mass. — Third-seeded Manuel Orantes of Spain drove Eddie Dibbs to racquet-blinging frustration with steady ground strokes and added the $125,000 U.S. Pro Tennis Championship to his list of court titles. The grueling 7-6, 7-5, 6-4 victory over the fourth-seeded Dibbs was Orantes' second major title in the past month and was worth $20,000. He won the U.S. Clay Court Championship in Indianapolis earlier in August.

In the doubles final, Stan Smith and Bob Lutz defeated the top-seeded team of Brian Gottfried and Bob Hewitt, 6-3, 6-4.

LINDSTROM YOUNGEST
Fred Lindstrom, at 18, was the youngest man ever to play in a world series when he starred for the Giants against the Washington Senators in the 1924 classic. He was also the youngest man ever to get four hits in one game.

NEW TOWN SQUARE, Pa. (AP) — Gary Cowan suggests that the U.S. Golf Association should discard its match play format for the National Amateur Championship.

"You don't even get the feeling that you're playing in a national championship," said Cowan, the Canadian, who won the title in 1967 and 1971.

"I'm not particularly fond of it (match play)," said Cowan, best remembered for the 135-yard chip shot into the cup on the final hole to win the 1971 Amateur.

Cowan is one of 200 of golf's top amateurs who started the first of eight rounds in the 77th National Amateur today over the 6,950-yard Aronimink Golf Club course in suburban Philadelphia. He opened against Jay Vincent of Norwalk, Conn.

In addition to Cowan, there were four former Amateur champions in the field — Bill Sander (1876), Vinnie Giles (1872), Fred Ridley (1975) and Bill Campbell (1964). Both the U.S. and British Walker Cup teams also are competing.

Cowan, whose two Amateur titles were in medal play, at Merion, Pa., in 1967, and in 1971 at Wilmington, Del., was asked why he entered if he was so set against match play competition.

"If you want to win the National Amateur, you have to play in it," he replied.

Cowan, an insurance salesman from the province of Ontario, has several indictments against match play.

"Golf is supposed to be fun in the amateur end of it," Cowan said. "It's a chance to renew old friendships. In this thing, you say hello to a guy, and may not see him again. Your paths may never cross. You may be here one day and you're gone."

"Then, in medal play about 180 tee it up, while in match play there are 200 matches. And one-third get byes. Some good players are gone before others tee it up. This is not a way to determine a national champion.

"And that's not taking anything away from the guys who win it. If you play well, you'll win it in any form. But if you take a survey of players as to which format they like, you'll probably get a surprising answer."

Cowan, 38, and the father of four children, qualified this year for the Amateur with a 73-70-143. He plays on the average of twice a week. In addition to his two National Amateur titles, he has won the Canadian Amateur, North-South and Porter Cup titles.

Lancers Eye Successful Season Despite Key Losses

There's some good news and some bad news at Lakeshore. First, the good news. The Lancers return seven starters on defense and two top rushers on offense in Odell Brister and Paul Freer.

Now, the bad tidings. Lakeshore will be without the services of four starters from last year who were being counted on for the 1977 season. Also missing are super performers Tom Jager and Mike Mason, now performing at Western Michigan and UCLA, respectively.

Kerry Myers and Greg Hopkins have moved out of the Lakeshore school district with Myers going to Oakland, Calif., and Hopkins to Benton Harbor. Scott Smikle, a two-year letter winner and starting center, will miss the season due to a back injury and offensive guard Mark Owens is currently out with mononucleosis, although he could return later in the season. Also Jon Osborn, who lettered last year but didn't start, has moved to Muskegon. "We're going to be inexperienced because of all these losses," comments Lancer Coach Dave Topping. "But that's part of football...we're not going to worry about it. We'll play over it and go ahead and win anyway."

"Lakeshore is always going to be in the race. And this is the case this year, especially if we get some experience quickly. I think we'll have an exciting year."

The Lancers traditionally have had a lot of size. But not this fall with only one player on the 33-member roster listed as over 200 pounds.

"This is the smallest team I've coached in 20 years," notes Topping, who is 20-16 in four years at Lakeshore. "But I feel our quickness should make up a little bit for that lack of size."

Defense should be a Lancer strong point with veterans Brister, Freer, Jamie Lingle, Dave DeVoir, Marc Florian, Mike Stanbery and Joe Rodriguez all returning. Freer was an all-Blossomland pick in the secondary in 1977.

Stanbery (6-2, 185 pounds) and Bob Brown (5-11, 160) should man the ends with Florian (5-11, 160), Rodriguez (5-7, 160) and Ron Burns (5-7, 205) top tackle candidates. Joe Campbell (5-8, 155) and Rick Cross (5-10, 155) are working at the noseman slot.

DeVoor (5-9, 155), Lingle (5-9, 145), Bill Wolter (5-9, 160) and Ken Miston (5-8, 15) are competing at linebacker. Brister (5-7, 160), Freer (5-10, 165) and Dave Goodwin (5-10, 150) should give Lakeshore a rugged secondary.

Brister should develop into one of the area's best running backs. Last year he gained 802 yards and scored 46 points while being voted to the all-conference squad. Freer, who chalked up 340 yards and tallied 54 points, is being switched to fullback.

DeVoor and Pete Bartschke are contending for the wingback position. Lingle, Goodwin and Craig Warner also are bidding for running berths.

The quarterback job is up in the air. DeVoor, the backup last fall, Wade Froberg, Scott Andrews, Norm Gruel and sophomore Mike Mervenne all are in the running. Lakeshore will lack the passing attack of last year but could make up for it with an improved ground game.

The offensive line will be green with Florian and Stanbery the only returnees. Hopefuls include Brown, Campbell, Burns, Glen Elsasser, Kevin Smiley, Ron Field, Joe Herick, Wolter and Miston.

Topping, who returns 10 lettermen off last year's 6-3 squad which tied for the Blossomland crown, sees the Lancers as a darkhorse this fall with Dowagiac, Cassopolis and Coloma the top contenders.

Dave Price again will be Topping's defensive co-ordinator. Dennis Keith is a new assistant coach who will be handling the offensive line and the defensive secondary. Dave Turley is the new freshmen coach.

Brister, Freer and Lingle will serve as tri-captains for Lakeshore.

The Lancers again open and close the season with the two local Class A teams in St. Joseph and Benton Harbor, respectively. Homecoming is scheduled for Oct. 14 against River Valley.

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — John Pont, whose Northwestern Wildcats are coming off their worst football season in 20 years and lost three of last year's offensive stars through graduation, has gone to his bullpen for help.

Junior Scott Stranski, Northwestern's best thrower on a baseball diamond but relatively untested on the gridiron, will probably start at quarterback for the Wildcats when they open the Big Ten season Sept. 10 at Iowa.

Stranski, 6-foot-3, 217 pounds, had a 7-1 record and a 2.10 earned run average for the Wildcat baseball team this year but has played only three downs on the varsity football team and has yet to complete a pass.

Nevertheless, he made a good enough impression on Pont during spring practice to beat out junior Steve Breitbach who played last year behind passing standout Randy Dean.

In addition to the loss of Dean, the Wildcats lost their best all-time rusher in Greg Boykin and starting fullback Jim Whims. To bolster a defensive secondary, Pont moved three-year tailback Pat Geegan to defensive roverback. Hence, the leading candidate for the backfield, Sam Rushing and fullback Matt Reitzug, have a total of only 10 varsity carries.

The strong points for the Wildcats this year are the experience of an all-senior offensive line and a fine fleet of receivers, despite the graduation of Scott Yelvington, NU's all-time best pass catcher.

Pont put as much emphasis in spring drills on mental attitude as he did on fundamentals and says there is no ill effects carried over from last year's disappointing 1-10 season.

Among the nine starters returning from last year's squad are tackle Tony Ardizzone and guards Frank Malec and Rudi Tanck who form the nucleus of the offensive line.

Dan Cleury, a 6-foot-6, 244 pounder who was out last season with a leg injury, will help anchor the line with his strength at tight end.

Sophomore Todd Sheets who averaged 16.5 yards per catch for his eight receptions last year and senior Mark Bailey will cushion the loss of Yelvington.

The heart of Pont's defense features Paul Maly, a three-year standout at middle guard, who has been moved to linebacker in an attempt to improve the rushing defense which was the worst in the conference last year.

Three-year starter Marty

Szostak and junior Mike Weitzman are at the tackles while the ends will see untested sophomore Kevin Berg and junior Mike Kendzicky, who has seen only limited varsity time.

Two regulars, free safety Malcolm Hunter, who had five interceptions last year, and strong safety Steve Scardina, return to the defensive backfield, although Scardina has an injured hamstring and prompted the move of Geegan.

"The defensive secondary was one of our strengths last season," Pont said. "We were first in the Big Ten in pass defense and Hunter was second in the league in pass interceptions. We're going to win some football games."

As one observer said, "some" is more than "one" but preseason pundits still look for NU at the bottom of the Big Ten heap.

Ron Waldvogel Resigns As St. Joe CC Coach

Ron Waldvogel has resigned as head cross country coach at St. Joseph, according to athletic director Dale Kubicki.

Waldvogel, who coached cross country for 10 years, will remain on as the head track and field coach.

"It's for personal reasons I'm resigning," Waldvogel stated. "We had set some goals and all had been reached."

Under Waldvogel, St. Joseph

won its only Class A state championship, taking the cross country title in 1971. The Bears also finished second in the state in 1968, 1970 and 1974.

They also won three regional titles and five conference crowns. St. Joe was second in the league four times.

Waldvogel's career dual record was 107-17. He went five years without losing a dual meet in Michigan and up until last season, only Loy Norrix had beaten St. Joseph in a league dual confrontation.

Howard Kingsley, Waldvogel's assistant last season, will take over the head man's job. Kingsley ran for Loy Norrix and Kalamazoo Valley Community College. He received his four-year degree from Western Michigan University.

"I have confidence in Howard," Waldvogel commented. "He is distance-oriented — he is a natural for us."

Good Pitching Plangger's Key

Brilliant pitching carried Plangger's to a doubleheader sweep over Class A state champion Topper's of Kalamazoo Tuesday night at Plangger's Park.

Plangger's won the first game 2-0 and took the nightcap 6-1.

Rick Plangger hurled a two-hitter with 11 strikeouts in the first contest. George Luther and Rod Dewey combined for a three-hitter in the nightcap.

Kirk Hocker and Rick Plangger were the top hitters for Plangger's, now 53-33. Each collected a double and a single.

Bowlers Needed

A five-man bowling team is needed for the Thursday night second shift handicapped league at Gersonde's. The league opens play Sept. 8. For further information call Elmer Dobberstein at 927-4895.

Hunter Safety Class Scheduled

A hunter safety class will be held from 6-9 p.m. on Sept. 7, 12, 14 and 19 at the Berrien County Sportsman's Club at Arden.

Young hunters ages 12 to 17 must attend all four sessions to qualify for test and hunting license. New hunting laws, like the wearing of hunter orange and the landowner permission slip, will also be explained.

Ex-Ring Champ Walker Now Diseased, Penniless

By MARK CRANE

MARLBORO, N.J. (AP) — Mickey "Toy Bulldog" Walker was once a glamorous figure.

He earned $5 million as a boxer, and became welterweight and middleweight champion. The paintings he did after he left the ring were displayed in art galleries around the world. He was seen in the company of royalty, governors and famous underworld figures.

Now, at age 76, Edward Patrick Walker is diseased, penniless and a committed patient at Marlboro State Psychiatric Hospital.

Dr. Raymond Kyriakos, his attending physician, says Walker has cerebral arterial sclerosis, probably caused by too many punches to the head.

During a recent interview, he shook with Parkinson's disease. He suffers from anemia and hardening of the arteries.

"He's confused and he frequently punches people. He is potentially dangerous," despite his age, Kyriakos said.

Walker speaks very little and is given a variety of drugs to control his agitated nature.

Three years ago he collapsed, deliriously ill, in a Brooklyn street without any identification on him. Police assumed, at first, that he was a derelict.

Since then, Walker has lived in hospitals and nursing homes. The last rites of the Roman Catholic Church were administered once, when doctors thought there was no hope for recovery. He was committed to Marlboro in 1975.

Walker was nicknamed "Toy Bulldog" because he was tenacious in the ring and only 5-feet-7.

From 1918 to 1935, Walker won 83 boxing matches and lost only 18.

He was welterweight champion from 1922 to 1926 and held the middleweight crown from 1926 to 1931. He also fought as a light-heavyweight and heavyweight against such formidable opponents as Max Schmeling, Jack Sharkey and Maxie Rosenbloom.

Walker was elected to the Boxing Hall of Fame in 1955.

After retiring from the ring in 1935, Walker bought a tavern in Elizabeth, his hometown. He earned prominence in primitive art painting and his works were displayed in New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art, Philadelphia's Academy of Fine Arts and many London galleries.

He also opened a bar in New York, wrote an autobiography and took flings at acting, singing, radio announcing, sports writing and refereeing.

Walker could answer questions with only a few words when visited in his cottage at Marlboro.

"They were all tough," he said, when asked which was his most difficult bout.

He said he enjoys watching boxing matches on television, but "it's a different world today."

Asked how he lost the $5 million he was reported to have earned as a boxer, Walker laughed and said, "It disappeared."

Only a handful of people visit Walker. His sixth wife, Mariel, and some childhood friends from Elizabeth stop by occasionally, hospital officials said.

Walker said if he could live his life over again, he would still be a boxer.

"Fighting is in a fighter. He has to fight," Walker said.

FIGHTS FOR LIFE: Former boxing star Edward Patrick "Mickey" Walker is shown as he appeared in 1976 (left) and in 1929 (right) during the height of his career. Walker, who earned $5 million in boxing and was the welterweight champion from 1922 to 1926 and held the middleweight crown from 1926 to 1931, is now 76, diseased, penniless and committed to the Marlboro State Psychiatric Hospital in New Jersey. (AP Wirephoto)

Involuntary Retirement Arrives For NFL Veterans

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Involuntary retirement came to hundreds of players in the National Football League on Tuesday, but the unkindest cut of all may have come in Kansas City.

Bob Maddox, a defensive end who had been playing on sheer courage since 1975, was told that the physical pain would finally come to an end. Now, the emotional pain begins.

"They gave me all the chances to do well, so I don't feel badly about anyone," Maddox said in reference to the Chiefs' organization. "But every day was difficult. If I can now just get through this day, I can get through anything."

Maddox, an inspiration to the Chiefs, has been playing on a bum knee described by Dr. Howard Ellfeldt, the team physician, as "the worst knee injury I ever saw."

He and other doctors said Maddox would be lucky to walk again. Maddox proved them wrong, embarking on a torturous rehabilitation program that brought him off the injured list midway through the 1976 season.

"I don't know of a man who climbed a higher mountain," said Kansas City Coach Paul Wiggin. "Everybody liked him. He's that kind of guy."

Casper Returns To Flint

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Billy Casper who won the first Flint Open and Davey Hill, winner of the most recent, will try again this weekend over the Flint Hills Club golf course.

The tournament, once one of the most popular stops on the PGA tour, has officially rejoined the play-for-pay circuit.

The $100,000 event is being held opposite the World Series of Golf at Akron, Ohio, which has attracted most of the big names on the tour.

Casper captured the original Open in 1958. The tournament was dropped after Hill's victory in 1968.

Larry Mancoeur, host pro at the Flint Hills, has held a satellite event every year but one since then. Two years ago, the purse was $21,000 and it was increased to $50,000 last summer.

There has been some talk of putting on a $250,000 PGA tournament next year.

Another former winner, Phil Rodgers (1966) also will be in the field.

Casper, who won the Masters in 1970, will be joined by four other Masters Champions: Doug Ford, 1957; Gay Brewer, 1967; Bob Goalby, 1968 and George Archer, 1969.

Al Gelberger, author of the all-time PGA record of 13 under par 59 in the Danny Thomas Memphis Open this year also is competing along with Leonard Thompson, runner-up to Hale Irwin in last week's Hall of Fame classic in Pinehurst, N.C. The winner will receive $20,000.

The course can be stretched out to approximately 7,100 yards and features five par 3's.

Three Church Teams Win

St. Joe Catholic, Grace Lutheran and Christ Lutheran all came up winners in the St. Joseph Church League softball tournament.

St. Joe Catholic topped Trinity Lutheran 7-2. John Smietanka got the win as Ron Ullery and Dick Payovitch each smacked two hits.

Grace got by St. Joe Methodist 4-3 with winning hurler Herb Reimers getting two hits.

Christ edged Zion 5-4 with Bill Brege leading the way with a pair of safeties. Gene Manley got the victory.

Two Veterans Cut By Lions

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — The Detroit Lions have cut their active roster to 52 players, releasing five on waivers and placing one on the military reserve list.

Two veterans were cut Tuesday — third-year running back Bobby Thompson and wide receiver Bob Picard, in his second year with the Lions.

Thompson was signed as a free agent in 1970 after spending six years in the Canadian Football League. Picard, a sixth-round draft pick of the Philadelphia Eagles in 1973, was a free agent acquisition of the Lions late last October.

The others released were rookies Ian Sunter, former University of Michigan placekicker Bob Wood, Tim Black and John Stuffle. Sunter, an undrafted player in the U.S. Navy, was put on the military reserve list and will not play the remainder of the season.

Sunter and Wood, both placekickers, were free agents with Detroit. Linebacker Tim Black was the Lions' seventh round draft choice this year from Baylor.

'Honeymooners' Puts Audrey In Familiar Role

Q. Is Audrey Meadows really going to return to play Alice Kramden on Jackie Gleason's new "Honeymooners" TV special this season, and if so, how does Sheila MacRae feel about losing the role? — P.R., Fort Meyers, Fla.

A. After years of being the traveling wife of Continental Airlines' big boss, Robert Six (former husband of Ethel Merman), Audrey has agreed to do two of Gleason's specials. As for Sheila, not very busy since 1971 when Gleason went into semi-retirement, she's disappointed

"Lenny" three years ago, to see if they can't come up with a film based on Diamond's hit album, "Beautiful Noise." The only problem is that Fosse is as difficult as Friedkin. Neil really knows how to pick them!

THE BURNS WAY: That ever-young comedian, 81-year-old George Burns, has a beauty secret. He confided recently that he's been rubbing a commercial skin cream all over his body for the last 10 years. As far as George is concerned, it beats plastic surgery.

Q. Does that beautiful actress Genevieve Bujold date any of the lotharios on the Hollywood scene? — T.L., Moorhead, Minn.

A. For awhile, Genevieve resisted the three great lovers — Warren Beatty, Ryan O'Neal and Jack Nicholson — saying she would never date any of the Hollywood studs. But she seems to have changed her mind and has been glimpsed around the movie town with Warren.

Q. What happened to all these Kung-Fu and karate movies? I haven't seen too many of them around lately. — G.S., Wallington, N.J.

A. Hollywood has a way of dealing with films, such as those high-kicking capers, that exhaust their audiences. It stops making them. Science fiction and its various offshoots are firmly in the saddle now. That famous Oriental producer, Run Run Shaw, who gave American screens a host of kung-fuers, is launching an $11 million plus sci-fi, "Meteor." Ronald Neame, the British director who kicked off the disaster film cycle with "The Poseidon Adventure," will guide "Meteor."

Q. Is it true that Al Pacino's girlfriend the stunning Marthe Keller, is fending with a famous and older German actress? — M. H., Phoenix

A. Well, perhaps not fending, but Ms. Keller and actress-author Hildegard Knef are on the outs these days. Both are in Billy Wilder's new film, "Fedora," now shooting in Germany. Knef was hired at Keller's suggestion but the older actress bristled when she discovered she was listed near the end of the cast. Knef then gave out interviews claiming she plays the lead, co-starring with William Holden and Jose Ferrer. That didn't sit at all well with Swiss-born Keller. At a recent press conference for the film in Munich, Keller showed up bit Knef was conspicuously absent.

Q. What's the latest on Neil Diamond's long-awaited movie debut? — A.H., Trenton

A. Neil got mixed up with the most temperamental of directors, William Friedkin, who is hard to work with even when his stock is riding high which it is not now, thanks to his latest, "Serpenter." Friedkin wanted to turn Diamond's TV special into a feature-length pseudo-biography movie, so they parted company fast and not very friendly. Now, Neil is huddling with director Bob Fosse, who hasn't done a film since in not being asked back but has remained quite professional about not complaining publicly. Gleason never wanted to give up Audrey, but she preferred her married role, and even Gleason was surprised when she accepted his offer this time. He swears it is no reflection on Sheila, just that Audrey was the first Alice Kramden and therefore always gets asked first. Sheila, however, has admitted she'll never do the role again, even if Audrey decides to say "no" in the future.

Q. The reason Deborah Kerr's my favorite actress and always has been — is that just beneath that lovely ladylike exterior I suspect there's a lot of fire. Don't you agree? — P.F., Libertyville, Ill.

A. We'll let Deborah give you her answer to that one. "Hell, I'm not that cool in the first place," she told a source of ours recently. "Half the people who are scared of meeting me — because I'm so nice and ladylike — should know how scared I am of them. Banked fire, that's me — a raging volcano just waiting to erupt." When asked whether she ever really does erupt, Deborah said, "I do. I do all the time — but I don't expect anyone will believe it."

Q. What's the latest on Neil Diamond's long-awaited movie debut? — A.H., Trenton

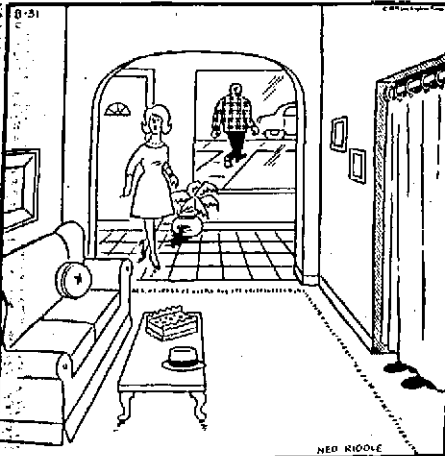

A. Neil got mixed up with the most temperamental of directors, William Friedkin, who is hard to work with even when his stock is riding high which it is not now, thanks to his latest, "Serpenter." Friedkin wanted to turn Diamond's TV special into a feature-length pseudo-biography movie, so they parted company fast and not very friendly. Now, Neil is huddling with director Bob Fosse, who hasn't done a film since

Joe, Meet Good Ole Bert

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joseph Garwood said he was just having fun when he telephoned the First National Bank of Columbia, Ga., asking for a $200 million loan. "I told them if good old Bert (Lance) could do it, I should be able to do it," Garwood, 53, said, adding that the bank "transferred me around a lot" and did not think his joke directed at the director of the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) and former head of the Georgia bank was funny. On Monday, his telephone rang, and "Bert Lance introduced himself," said Garwood. "He said he was returning my call." Garwood, a widower who spends a great deal of his life in bed from injuries suffered in World War II, said he and Lance chatted mostly about politics, and ignored Lance's personal financial troubles. "I graciously in a way didn't go into that, since he was being investigated by so many sources," Garwood said. "I was surprised at his friendliness." He said he told Lance to "hang in there." A spokesman for the OMB confirmed that Lance telephoned Garwood, but was unable to say how he happened to make the call.

Ford Pins High Hopes On New Fairmont

By MARTY HAIR
Associated Press Writer
DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Ford Motor Co.'s new compact Ford Fairmont will be the most popular new car in history, officials of the nation's second-largest automaker predicted Tuesday.

Ford predicted it would sell 450,000 Fairmonts, that and the popularity of the Fairmont twin, the Mercury Zephyr, will boost Ford sales to a record 4 million cars and trucks in the 1978 model year, according to William Bourke, executive vice president.

The Ford Mustang is the most popular new car so far. It sold 419,000 in 1976.

Suggested retail price of a two-door, four-cylinder Fairmont with 2.3 liter engine is $14,649, 11.4 percent higher than the 1977 Maverick. The Zephyr four-cylinder is base priced at $15,785, 12.6 percent higher than the Comet.

Bourke said at a new-car preview for auto writers Ford's overall gasoline mileage should be "slightly higher" than the 1977 Maverick, but the federal required 18 miles per gallon for all company's models lumped together.

Fort began the 1977 model year exporting its fleet to average 17.1 m.p.g. but the popularity of the company's larger cars pushed the average to 18.3 by the end of the model year.

Bourke predicted the new car marked in 1978 would be divided.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Carter administration is considering using the nation's youth to keep track of law enforcement's neighbors are saving energy, the Los Angeles Times reported today.

half and half between large and small cars. He estimated imports would hold about 38 percent of the market or some two million cars a year. Imports recently have had about 20 percent of the market.

The industry's total car and truck sales in the 1977 model year, including imports, will reach 14.6 million — 1.1 million cars and 3.5 million trucks, Bourke said.

Bourke said Ford is spending $1.2 billion to bring its three new cars, four-wheel-drive vehicle and heavy truck to market. In addition to the Fairmont and Zephyr, Ford is introducing the Fiesta, a front-wheel-drive "mini-car" built in West Germany, a Bronco utility vehicle, and a diesel-powered heavy truck called the C1-3000.

FAIRMONT'S TWIN: Ford Fairmont has a twin in the Lincoln-Mercury camp — the Zephyr, above. Fairmont and Zephyr replace Maverick and Comet and come as sedans and station wagons. Coupes are due later.

Parents Can Smooth Child's First Trip To School

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
The start of school is approaching and parents with youngsters to attend class for the first time should start now to make sure that the big event goes smoothly.

The Office of Child Development of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has a guide for parents, prepared by Lillian S. Anderson, coordinator of psychological services and elementary guidance for the Quincy, Mass., public schools. The pamphlet, "When a Child Begins School," is available, at no charge, from the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 6352, Pueblo, Colo. 81009. Here, meanwhile, are some suggested dos and don'ts.

—Don't make the beginning of school a topic of daily conversation. Treat going to school as something that happens in the normal course of events — something that is expected and natural.

—Don't allow older children to frighten or tease the younger ones with horror stories about school. Talk to older children and make them partners in the effort to help younger brothers and sisters adjust easily and without fear to the situation.

—Do answer all questions honestly. You can help ease a child's uncertainty by telling him how long the school year lasts, how many hours he will be away from home each day and how he will get to and from class. If you try to reassure the child by lying — telling him it won't last very long, for example — he will only be more upset when he learns the truth.

—If both parents will be working, arrange for before and after-school care and make sure the child knows exactly what the setup is. Again, knowing the details of what's ahead makes a child feel more secure.

—Do use if your school system runs orientation sessions for parents and first-time pupils to familiarize the youngsters with staff members and physical facilities.

—Don't give the impression that the child has a choice about going to school. If your youngster announces, "They can't make me go to school," respond calmly, but firmly. Let the child know you understand his concern, but take a positive attitude. You believe he can handle the situation.

—Do let the child know you support him and understand the effort he's making. Give the child some control over the situation. Ask which clothes he would like to wear on the first day of school. Or what he'd like in his lunch box.

—Do make transportation plans clear. If the child is going to walk, go over the route once or twice before class begins or accompany him to and from school for the first few days. Check to see if there are other neighborhood children with whom he can walk. If the child will be picked up by bus, point out the kind of bus he'll be using. If possible, take a bus ride before the first day of school.

—Don't drag out farewells by yelling into the classroom and standing around while the child gets seated. This may lead to tears which the child will see on the wrong foot and prompt teasing by other children. Say goodbye at home or in the school yard. If you are taking the child to the bus, let him board by himself.

—Do try to force the child to be exuberant about going to school. Encourage him to express his feelings. A little fantasy won't hurt. If the child says, for example, "I wish schools had never been invented," try replying this way: "It would be fun wouldn't it? Sometimes I wish I didn't have to do certain things. But we can't always have everything we want, even though it's fun in the end."

—Don't tell the child how much fun you're going to have while he's in school, even if you have been looking forward to the first year. Reassure him by mentioning concrete, everyday tasks — such as doing the laundry — so he knows his familiar world is still there.

—Do create a normal atmosphere at home. Starting school is a special event, but it should not be treated as a happening of such magnitude that it disrupts life completely.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Decline Broadly

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices declined broadly today in a carry over of Tuesday's late decline.

Losers outnumbered gainers by close to a 2-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the market was suffering from persistent fears of an economic slowdown. On Tuesday the Commerce Department reported the third consecutive monthly decline in the index of leading economic indicators.

Brokers also noted uneasiness over reports that some Carter administration officials favored development of voluntary "standards" on wages and prices.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones Industrial average dropped 5.20 to 858.89.

Losers outnumbered gainers by about a 7-5 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume came to 18.22 million shares, against 15.28 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index lost 27 in 62.77. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down 37 at 117.97.

The Market In Brief
NYSE Composite	52.77 -0.27

BIG DIP: The stock market yielded to some late selling Tuesday, giving back most of the ground it gained in Monday's technical rally. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 7.78 on Monday, fell back 5.20 to 858.89. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

Steel Plant Shutdown Is Denied

CHICAGO (AP) — U.S. Steel Corp. has no intention of shutting its South Works in Chicago, the president of the United Steelworkers union has told the Chicago Tribune.

Lloyd McBride said Tuesday he has received assurances from a U.S. Steel official that production will continue at the plant on Chicago's South Side. The assurances, he said, came from Bruce Johnson, chief negotiator in steel industry labor talks and vice president of industrial relations for the company.

Rumors that the plant, which employs about 8,000 production workers, might close circulated last week when company officials announced administrative job cutbacks. The cuts were blamed on falling sales due to foreign imports, property taxes, environmental expenses and the plant's poor efficiency record.

"I was told that the situation in Chicago was definitely overstated and there are no plans to phase out that plant," McBride said.

Here's Stock List For Monthly Check

By SAM SHULSKY
Retirees living on a tight budget often request an investment portfolio which will spread their income over 12 months of the year. While I am reluctant to bend investment judgment to suit the calendar, I do realize that when income barely covers outgo it helps to have that income appear at close, regular intervals.

For those retirees young enough to include substantial equity investment in their portfolio, here are some suggestions by Wayne Hammer, Stock Exchange member, which will bring in dividends on a regular monthly basis. Yields run from 5 to over 8 per cent.

Paying dividends in January, April, July and October: Amerazex, A.T. & T., Chemical New York, CIT Financial, Duquesne Light, ICI Industries, International Harvester, Nabors, National Fuel Gas, N.E. Electric, Northern States Power, Pacific Gas & Electric, Peoples Gas, Stokely-Van Camp, Utah Power & Light.

February, May, August and November dividend checks are provided by American Can, American Natural Resources, Bank of New York, Central & Southwest, Cleveland Electric, Columbia Gas, Commonwealth Edison, Diamond International, Freehuf, Illinois Power, Iowa Power & Light, N.Y. State Electric & Gas, NICOR, Pacific Lighting, Public Service of Colorado.

For dividend checks in March, June, September and December: American Brands, American Electric Power, Charter New York, Chessie System, Continental Corp., General Foods, Gulf Oil, Interstate Power, Mobil, National Distillers, NL Industries, Pontiac Electric Power, Texaco.

U.S. Gypsum, Washington Water Power.
As usual, my disclaimer: I am not endorsing or recommending purchase of any or all these stocks. The list is merely a suggestion. If you make only one choice from "Column A," another from "B" and another from "C" you can have twelve dividend checks a year — one a month.

Mutual Fund Information: A list of mutual funds which hold over 80 per cent of the industry's assets is obtainable free of charge from the Investment Company Institute, Dept. S., 1775 K Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006. The list includes the newly launched municipal bond and option funds and also describes all the other main types of funds, from aggressive growth funds, through balanced funds, to money market funds.

The ICI is also in a position to send separate lists of funds as well as guides to the tax advantages offered by the Retirement Act of 1974 to those planning for retirement, as well as a basic introduction to mutual funds.

Valuable additions to the latest fund list are the inclusion of addresses and the grouping of funds by "families" for investors planning switches in funds to meet new needs.

Altogether, a valuable addition to an investor's library.

Toyota, VW Show Gains In Exports

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Increased export sales helped boost the performance of the auto giants of Japan and West Germany, Toyota Motor Co. and Volkswagen reported separately.

Tokyo-based Toyota said it posted a record profit for the year ended June 30 of 116.7 billion yen, or about $437.27 million at current exchange rates. Its earnings made it the first Japanese company to reach an annual profit of more than 100 billion yen, the company said. Sales rose almost 15 per cent to about $857.3 billion.

Volkswagen, in a statement from its headquarters at Wolfsburg, West Germany Tuesday, said its world sales in the first half of the year increased 12 per cent from the first six months of 1976. Total sales for 1977's first half were about $5.38 billion at current exchange rates.

VW did not release its earnings figures. Both companies attributed much of their improved performance to auto exports.

VW said volume of cars sold abroad increased 20 per cent, to 458,000 units, in the first half of the year. Sales to the United States amounted to 137,138 units, an increase of 29,107 from a year earlier.

The West German auto manufacturer said its domestic sales declined two per cent to 731,000 units.

Toyota said its exports for the full business year ended June 30 increased 22 per cent but domestic sales fell about 3.5 per cent.

Oil Spill Hearing Scheduled

CHICAGO (AP) — The Metropolitan Sanitary District, satisfied by U.S. Steel's explanation of a fuel-oil spill in Calumet Harbor on the South Side, has called a hearing to determine the cause of the industrial accident.

Between 2,000 and 4,000 gallons of fuel oil spilled into the harbor Tuesday at the company's South Works, officials said.

"The spill occurred after fuel oil, instead of water, was put into a cooling jacket around a blast furnace, company officials said.

Cleanup operations began at about noon and involved 1,500 feet of floating booms to contain the slick. In addition, absorbent material was spread on the water to blot up the oil.

DuPont Heirs Fight Bank Sale

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — New wrinkles have surfaced in the fight for control of the $2 billion Alfred I. duPont estate.

Jacksonville financier Hugh Culverhouse, owner of the National Football League Tampa Bay Buccaneers, revealed in circuit court Tuesday that he represents a client willing to pay $43 million in cash for control of the Florida National Bank chain.

And duPont trustee Edward Ball, brother of duPont's late widow, Jessie Ball duPont, filed suit to have trustee William B. Mills removed for "a breach of trust and an act of bad faith."

Mills and another duPont trustee, Alfred duPont Dent, filed suit Friday trying to stop what they said was an attempt by Duke University to buy control of the bank through a deal agreed upon secretly by Ball and Terry Sanford, president of the North Carolina school.

The court ruled it didn't have the power to stop the attempt. Attorneys for Mills and Dent didn't say whether they would appeal.

The duPont trust is under a Federal Reserve Board deadline of Sept. 23 to divest itself of Florida National stock.

Two Crash Suits Settled For $12,500 In Berrien

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Consent judgments totaling $12,500 were entered this week in Berrien Circuit court against the Michigan State police and a state trooper stemming from the death of two men during a 1974 police chase.

Judge Chester J. Byrns entered judgments of $6,250 apiece on behalf of the families of John H. Lewis, of Benton Harbor, and Ronald D. Post, of Benton Heights. The two were killed when the top of the car in which they were passengers was sheared off as the auto slid under a truck trailer. The car was being pursued by police.

The awards went against the defendants in the case, the state police and Trooper Gary Chappell, of the Benton Harbor post. The judgment notes the defendants contend payment "is not an admission of liability but is simply a compromise of a doubtful and disputed claim."

Each of the dead men's families sought $100,000 in the original suits.

Lewis and Post, along with the driver of the car, Ernest Cheatham Jr., of Benton Harbor, died Nov. 15, 1974, when the car in which they were riding glanced off a pickup truck and then ran a stop sign at the intersection of East Main and Walnut streets, Benton township.

At the time of the collision, Chappell reported he was pursuing Red Arrow highway in Benton township when he spotted a car traveling at high speed. He said he followed the auto, which turned onto Walnut and then ran a stop sign at Main, where the crash occurred.

The state police post at the time reported it was not known if the three victims knew they were being pursued by police, since Chappell was driving a semi-marked patrol car with a police emblem on one side and no turret lights on the roof.

The suits contended Chappell failed to operate either siren or red spotlight, and also claimed the chase was for a traffic violation "and a high-speed pursuit was not warranted."

Chappell and his partner, Trooper Thomas Harken, were treated for injuries sustained when their patrol car also hit the pickup. Both have returned to duty, and Harken was not named a defendant in either suit.

The suits were filed on behalf of Delmar F. Post, widow and administratrix of the estate of Post, and Atty. Colin John Jr., as administrator for Lewis' estate. Niles Atty. Sherman Drew handled the Post case and St. Joseph Atty. Drew Seaman the Lewis suit.

Chappell and the state police were represented in both cases by St. Joseph Atty. James McQuillan.

A Benton Harbor man originally charged with breaking and entering pleaded guilty yesterday in Berrien Circuit court to a lesser charge and was sentenced to 90 days in jail.

Jackie Ross, 22, of 781 Columbus avenue, pleaded guilty to entering without permission and received the jail term from Judge Julian E. Hughes. Hughes ordered that Ross could be released from jail if he obtains his General Education Development certificate before the term expires.

Ross was charged with entering the apartment of Emma Stevenson, at Briarwood apartments in Benton township, between Oct. 29 and Nov. 3, 1974. Hughes said the delay in getting the case to court was because Ross left the state after he was charged and was only recently arrested on a warrant.

Thieves Get $350 At Deer Forest

COLOMA — Coloma township police are investigating the theft of an estimated $350 in change from several animal feed dispensers at Deer Forest, Coloma.

According to police, Merle Landau, co-owner of the park, reported last night an estimated 10 to 12 feed dispensers located throughout the park had been broken into and the change removed.

The thefts occurred over the past six weeks with several of the machines severely damaged, police said.

He was recaptured quickly by police within two blocks of the courthouse in St. Joseph.

In other District court cases yesterday:

Karen Fulford, 20, M-140 and Columbia road, Pipestone township, was bound over to Circuit court on a charge of embezzlement over $100 July 16-29. She is accused of embezzlement at Case Landscaping and Lawn service where she had been employed as a bookkeeper. She is free on $5,000 bond to await trial.

Harvey Lee Curry, also known as Anthony Jefferson, 18, 637 Green avenue, Benton Harbor, was bound over to Circuit court on a charge of breaking and entering at 421 Territorial road, Benton Harbor, on Aug. 18. Curry is jailed in lieu of $3,000 bond.

Ray Leoni, 53, 354 Maiden Lane, Royall township, demanded examination on a charge of resisting and obstructing a police officer on Aug. 28. Leoni is in jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Fred Bullocks, 30, 870 Pavane street, Benton Harbor, demanded examination on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, a pistol, on May 23 in Benton Harbor. Bullocks was jailed after failing to post $500 bond.

Larry Kirk Peters, 20, Chicago, Ill., demanded examination when arraigned on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, a pistol, in his car in Benton township on Aug. 29. Peters failed to post $2,500 bond and was jailed.
